MOTOR NOTES: PARKING FACILITIES.

By Our Motoring Correspondent.

The Dublin Police have been unusually active recently in warning motorists living in the suburbs that they must not let their cars remain stationary on the roadside for more than a few minutes. Take, for instance, the North Circular road. A business man drives home for dinner and leaves his car as close as possible to the kerbstone for an hour in front of his house. According to the police he is liable to be prosecuted and fined for obstructing the thoroughfare.

This raises the whole question of parking facilities in an acute form, and I trust that the City Commissioners will give it early consideration. I suggest that if a motor owner cannot leave his car outside his own door for a few minutes he should be allowed to leave it in an adjacent thoroughfare where there is not much traffic. One objection that may be urged to this course is that the city is by no means free from motor thieves. My reply to that is that the motor thieves will pursue their "trade" anyway, and that the best way to baffle them is to leave the car in such a condition that they cannot move it. There are plenty of ways in which this can be done.

Silencers.

There have been many complaints during recent months about noisy motor cycles. There can be no doubt that, next to a traction engine, the motor bicycle is the noisiest vehicle on the road, and that the law relating to it is thoroughly unsatisfactory. Some manufacturers fit what they say are efficient silencers, but more than one cyclist has been hauled before the magistrates, and ordered to pay a fine, because he accepted their words at their face value.

It is good news, therefore, that the Auto Cycle Union has taken up the matter of improving silencers, and that it has organised a silence test. The objects of this novel test are to demonstrate that it is possible to reduce the noise of a motor cycle engine, so that it will not be a nuisance to anybody, and to induce manufacturers to give the question serious consideration.

The Jury.

The test will take place at Brooklands, and instead of the usual official judges there will be a jury representative of various classes of the community. It will include a woman, a nerve specialist, a magistrate, a member of Parliament, two journalists, and a policeman. The jury will be posted where they can hear, but not see the vehicles that pass. As each one passes they will record their impressions. For purposes of comparison motor lorries, motor cars, and other vehicles will be interspersed with the cycles.

The trial will embody four tests—(1) back pressure; (2) aural observation at a fixed point at a speed of 25 miles an hour; (3) ascent of test hill on bottom gear; (4) starting the engine several times. No silencer which fails to give a reasonable standard in the first test will be submitted to the others. It is to be hoped that the trial will result in the average motor cycle becoming as unobjectionable as the average motor car.

Upholstery.

All Irish motorists were grieved last week by the news of the accident to Mr. K. Lee Guinness in the Spanish Grand Prix. He had a good chance of repeating his success in the 200 miles race when the mishap occurred. Major Seagrave proved to be the winner. Both of these fine racing motorists acknowledge that they owe much to pneumatic upholstery. There can be no doubt that air cushions of the type they use save them from the effects of excessive vibration on a long run, and that, therefore, they do not get so fatigued as their competitors. With these cushions and balloon tyres we seem to have achieved that perfect suspension at which designers have so long aimed.

The Show.

The motor show will be fully described by a special correspondent of the Irish Times, and I shall not seek to anticipate him. The outstanding feature of the show, of course, will be the price cuts, which, so far as we know them, truly are astonishing. Next to this perhaps the most interesting will be the number of six cylinder cars. Not so very long ago a "six" was a sign of wealth; none but the very rich could afford it. But that day has passed. The light "six," the cheap "six" has come. Several British "sixes" of the 12-15 type will be seen at Olympia, and they will be purchasable for about £500 (including Free State import duty). And then, of course, there will be American products of the same kind, including the Chryster, whose advent on this side of the Atlantic has caused such a furore. I hope to have an opportunity of driving one of them some day soon.

Instalments.

Supplementing the enormous business done in the United States by selling cars on the easy payment system the Detroit Automobile Club has introduced the system to the payment of premiums on insurance policies. These policies are issued upon a first payment of 15 per cent. of the premium, and the balance is spread over six months when a full year's insurance is effected.

Ulster Grand Prix.

Irish motoring has suffered a heavy loss by the death of Mr. Stanley Pyper, who was killed last week during a practice run on the Ulster Grand Prix course. A fine sportsman, he was well known not only throughout Ireland, but in motoring circles in Great Britain.

One fact that was brought out at the inquest deserves emphasising. Had he been wearing a crash helmet at the time of the accident Stanley Pyper's life might have been saved. It is to be hoped that all racing motorists, and particularly the young motor cyclists who are keen on competition work, will mark this.

In consequence of Mr. Pyper's death the organisers of the Ulster Grand Prix decided to postpone the event for a week. It appears, however, that the race cannot take place next Saturday. The Antrim County Council are bound by statute to give fourteen days' notice of their intention to close a road. A new application to the Council, therefore, will be necessary, and it is improbable that the race will take place this month.

A Comprehensive Policy, including Burglary, with the Irish National Assurance Company, Ltd., Head Office: 30 College Green, Dublin, gives the maximum protection at minimum premium.—(Advt.)

INVITED TO SING.

ASSAULT FOLLOWED REFUSAL.

At the Drumcondra District Court yesterday William O'Flaherty, 1 North Richmond street, charged Patrick Conway, Finglas, with having assaulted him on the 5th September. Mr. O'Flaherty said that he went into Heery's publichouse and there were some men singing there. He was invited outside by two men, and one of them asked him to sing a song. He told them he did not sing, and the defendant gave him a "box on the mouth, which broke his false teeth."

The defendant, who did not appear, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labour.

DRINK AFTER HOURS.

At the Drumcondra District Court yesterday, Miss Bridget Kenny, licensed vintner, Blanchardstown, was fined £1 and costs for having seven men on the premises on Monday, the 11th August, at 10.30 p.m. The men were fined 3s. each and costs.

Superintendent O'Shea said the house was well conducted. A brother-in-law of the defendant died recently, and her sister was ill, and he did not wish to press the case.

If the rising generation is our quarry, in vain will the net of authority be spread in sight of that particular bird.—The Dean of Bristol.

(a) Warmly commending to the churches the work of the recently-formed "Protestant Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society";

(b) Suggesting representation by the churches on "The Alliance for International Friendship";

(c) Calling the attention of the churches to the resolutions and reports of "Copec," and requesting their careful study, and, where possible, action thereon.

The report was adopted on the motion of the Bishop of Down, seconded by Dr. Osborne.

A resolution was passed appealing for adequate financial and personal assistance in support of the Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society.

The Secretaries were directed to communicate with Rev. Henry O'Connor, Hon. Secretary of the Diocesan Anti-Gambling Committee with reference to the suggestions of that Committee for legislation.

The United Council recommended for study the report of the British House of Commons on betting and gambling. The Council concluded with the Benediction.

MISSING GIRLS.

WITNESSES DISAPPEAR IN LURGAN CASE.

At the Lurgan Quarter Sessions yesterday, before Judge Green, Mr. F. J. Anderson, Crown Solicitor, said that he had applications to make in two cases in which, apparently, the witnesses had been "got at"—the first in his experience. In the case of the King v. McCreany and Hughes for assault two girls had disappeared, although served personally with the summonses. It was obvious that they had been "got at."

There was another serious case against Patrick Brady for assault on a girl. The girl was personally served with the summons, but her father practically defied the authorities and said that he would not let her attend.

His Honour said that no matter what the feelings of the father were he could not be allowed to interfere with the course of justice. The father should be warned that he was liable to attachment.

His Honour adjourned the case until the next Sessions.

ATTEMPT TO FIRE A HOUSE.

OFFENDER SMARTLY PUNISHED.

Yesterday at the Drumcondra District Court before Mr. E. J. Little, Joseph Loughlin, no fixed address, was charged with having endeavoured to set fire to Mr. Heery's publichouse at Finglas on the 16th September.

Sergeant McCarthy said that about 1 a.m. he went to Mr. Heery's shop and the door was burning, there were bags covered with tar close to it. He found Loughlin hiding in a lane and arrested him. The accused when in the barracks said: "I took a passion, and had to do it. Don't put that down or I'll be assassinated."

He was sentenced to six months imprisonment with hard labour.

The Rev. Patrick M. Playfair, D.D., of St. Andrew's, Fifeshire, died yesterday, aged 66.

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

HER BEST QUALITY

What is the best quality a woman can possess?

The question arose at a "mixed" club the other day, when it was discovered that even women themselves hold different opinions on the subject.

Several of the men present voted for "womanliness," but womanliness is a vague term, and may cover a great deal; one is bound to admit that a typically "womanly woman" . . as a man understands the description, may be painfully out of place in business life, and that the qualities of gentleness and kindness are a disadvantage more than anything else in a world where "competition" is the keynote of success.

A woman suggested "tact," and without doubt tact is an exceedingly useful possession in every walk of life, but tact requires to be supported by sympathy, discretion, and one or two other matters, and is a quality that cannot stand alone; the tactful person, whether man or woman, always runs the risk of having his or her sincerity queried . . . diplomacy is a word the sound of which is not always attractive.

Other qualities suggested were sympathy, a sense of justice, patience, and some more.

If I were a fairy godmother, with a choice of a gift to bestow on every girl baby . . . no matter what career time and fate may have in store for her . . . I should give her first of all the grace of adaptibility.

There is no walk of life to which this is not fitted, or no type of individual to whom it is not an advantage. The adaptable person is more useful than the talented one, and if in addition to being talented she is adaptable she is a prize, and her price is far above rubies.

The merely clever woman is frequently in the position of the proverbial "square peg." cleverness is prone to run in a groove of its own, there is no adaptability without a certain amount of mental ability, and it makes for success in so much as it is able to spread itself to fit any niche.

The adaptable woman can make even an unpromising marriage a success, and it is she . . . not the much vaunted "domesticated woman" who makes the best home.

An adaptability is a priceless possession to its owner; it enables her to see things in the best light, and to find compensations where others would find discomforts. No matter where the lot of such a woman is cast she is able to carry on; she may never set the Thames on fire, but as she is able to keep either the office or the home fires burning. . . that is a mere unimportant detail. G. G.

LAND OF DREAMS.

YOU will not find it marked on any map, for the land of dreams is far beyond the sight of mortal eyes. We have all passed a few "dream" hours on its shores, and yet we know nothing of the journey there. It holds for us memories of elusive charms and shadowy forms with whom we associate in the magic adventures of dreamland.

Unreal as these adventures seem to us afterwards, the lure of the dream world casts a subtle spell over us, so that, unconscious of any absurdity, we throw ourselves whole-heartedly into the fantastic adventures upon which we enter with as much excitement as we often display in the world of reality.

Our chances of visiting the land of dreams depend on the capricious will of Morpheus. Sometimes he keeps us far away from its shores, in which case we have no dreams at all, and other times he brings us to the land, but in playful mood torments us with bad dreams, so that, in fear, we tear ourselves out of his clutches.

So it is only when Morpheus is in genial mood that we can fully appreciate the beauty and peace of dreamland as it lies silver gleaming in the moonlight and surrounded by an ever tranquil sea. When, as dreamers, we touch the shore, we then seek the centre of the island, for there we find complete freedom from care and the happiest of dreams. Our adventures and wanderings through this part of the isle are controlled by our individual personalities, secret wishes and ambitions. All our emotions are as paramount in the land of dreams as they are in reality, but once they are carried to excess in dreamland, sleep loses its hold upon us, and we are brought back from the magic realms of a veritable fairyland.

Not only at night, but also in the daytime, do we seek the land of dreams, for quiet reverie brings many a day-dreamer to the shore, beyond which they may not go without the help of Morpheus. These are the most contented and happy of all dreamers, for, not being under the spell of sleep, they are able to mould their dreams according to their own fancies. How unperturbed they are, even though those lofty castles, whose spiral towers reach to the skies, should fall about their feet! The time they gave in building them was a source of rest from care, and, as they have always new castles in the air to build, let us leave them to their dreams! V. V. V.

"ANIMAL SUNDAY."

(BY "M.")

THE man in the corner of the high-backed pew settled down to listen to the sermon. He did not go to church very regularly now, but every Sunday as a child he had sat in that same pew, trying to touch the carpeted floor with his dangling feet.

The text caught his attention at once—an unusual one, he thought, until he remembered that this was the day set apart as "Animal Sunday"—"A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast, but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel."

The sunshine stole through the open windows of the little quiet church on the hill, and a bee buzzed in lazy annoyance against the diamond-shaped panes of glass. The preacher spoke eagerly, as one whose subject lay very near to his heart; and outside the closed door, on the cool flags of the porch, slept the old black cocker spaniel who was his trusted friend. The feathery tail waved involuntarily when the well-loved voice of the preacher was raised, as he spoke hotly of the cruelty that is practised, unchecked to a very large extent, towards the silent brethren who adore us in spite of it all.

The man in the pew nodded approvingly; he knew something of what animals suffer at the hands of those to whom they look for humanity. He had seen the treatment meted out to donkeys in backward country districts. The rope-knotted "tacklings" pressing all day upon some wounded place, where the flies cluster thick; the old lame donkey sold for a few shillings to wandering tinkers, to be beaten blindly from one unheeding town to the next.

He knew how a drunken man drives a nervous, willing horse—with brutal tugs at the soft, tender mouth and cruel blows on the shrinking flank. He thought of the overloaded brakes that came each Sunday to the beautiful neighbourhood—the horses sweat-drenched and flecked with foam, while one of the lighter-hearted occupants of the brake stood up and flicked them with the long whip, continuously and maddeningly, up hill and down.

And the dogs—he could scarcely bear to think of the dogs, with their pleading, frightened eyes and the hot, dry tongue that was ready to lick the hand that ill-treated. "The tender mercies of the wicked are cruel," said the preacher loudly, accusingly; and the old dog in the porch, who only knew kindness, raised his head from the cool stones and wagged his tail again.

The man in the pew thought of Tim, the wheaten terrier at home, who waited just inside the gate and would heed no footstep until his master came. It was worth a lot to get a welcome like Tim's every time one returned, even though one had only been absent for an hour or so.

With a jerk he brought his mind back from the dog he loved to the preacher, who was telling of some one who had gone away for four days, leaving a retriever dog tied up without either food or drink. And when the policeman on duty climbed the wall, attracted by a moaning sound, the dog was eating the lime off a white-washed building—"the tender mercies of the wicked."

In closing, the preacher spoke of the splendid work done by the Society that befriends these tortured animals. Then the listeners passed out into the sunshine through the little porch, where the old dog watched eagerly for the master who was his god.

The man who had sat in the pew touched the black head gently as he passed, and then went home to the rapturous welcome of the wheaten terrier, who waited, nose on outstretched paws.

"A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast." Ah, yes; but he is repaid in full measure, pressed down and running over.

"CHUBBY" UMBRELLAS.

THE present fashion of the "chubby" umbrella seems to have found a firm ally in the clerk of the weather; for this dripping summer every lady must carry her "brolly" if she wishes to keep her summer hat in a presentable state. In latter years we are told umbrella makers have had rather a slack time in spite of the tearful weather. It is the disuse of the silk hat which is held responsible, for when every self-respecting man carried a "topper" he also carried an umbrella to protect it. Nowadays nine men out of ten wear bowlers, or boaters, or deer-stalkers, and do not mind whether they get wet or not, so it is left to the "eternal feminine" to support the umbrella-makers, who are likely to have a prosperous season if the present weather continues—though we venture to hope it will not.

Umbrella did not come into general use in England until the latter port of the eighteenth century; they were known to be the ancients, however, who used them to keep off sun and rain. The Eastern nations first used them to keep off the sun; "Ombrello" in Italian signifies "a little shade." The use of umbrellas travelled very slowly from Italy to the other countries of Europe. The fact that Jonas Hanway, the well-known philanthropist, was the first man to walk about the streets of London with an umbrella has often been recorded.

It was considered very effeminate at first for a man to use an umbrella. This was curiously illustrated by an announcement in one of the papers of the day, which said:—"The gentleman who, in fear of rain, borrowed the umbrella from Will's coffee-house, shall, the next time, be welcome to the maid's pattens."

Umbrellas have a most annoying habit of getting mislaid; even the poet, Lowell, refers to this in his "Biglow Papers," for he says: "Chance is like an amberill—it don't take twice to lose it"—and Lowell alone of the poets seems to have seen something poetical in an umbrella. Certainly they are prosaic objects, but how infinitely protecting we find them when the sharp showers of to-day come down with unrelenting venom.

DUBLIN INQUESTS.

TWO PERSONS FOUND DEAD.

Death from natural causes was the verdict of a Dublin jury yesterday at an inquest on John Thornton, aged sixty-four, who died in bed at his lodgings, 7 Thomas's court (off Thomas street), on Sunday morning.

Arthur Farrell, who slept in the same room, said that Thornton did not complain of being ill, and the witness played cards with him before retiring to bed. In the morning the witness was awakened by a loud coughing and moaning, and when he got up Thornton was dead.

Medical evidence showed that death was due to congestion of the lungs.

A verdict of death from heart failure was returned in the case of Eileen Murray (50), of 9 Summerhill, who died suddenly on Sunday.

James Murray, a son, stated that he left the house on Saturday night at 10.50 to go to a dance. His mother was then in her usual health. When he returned on the following morning at 4.30 he saw her lying half-dressed on the bed. He tried to awaken her, but found that she was dead.

Medical evidence showed that death was due to heart failure.

AN IRISH TOURIST GUIDE.

CURIOUS CASE AT SLIGO.

At the Sligo Circuit Court, before Judge Wakely, Bernard O'Keaney, Ardara, Donegal, was charged with having received money by the false pretence that he was about to publish an Irish tourist guide.

The guide was actually produced in printed form in court, but the judge held that, as it had been printed only on the day before the case was taken up, the defendant's action in soliciting money for advertising was not bona fide, and he sentenced him to two months' imprisonment, with hard labour.

THEFT OF APPLES.

MEN FOUND IN GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S GARDEN.

William Fulham and Charles Gilmour, of no fixed abode, were charged by Sergeant McGrath, Chapelizod, in the Drumcondra District Court yesterday, with having on September 23 stolen apples, valued at 4s., the property of the Governor-General, from his garden at Glenaulin, Chapelizod.

Michael Keatley, gardener, stated that he saw two men in the garden, and they ran away at his approach. He found two bags of apples where they had been standing.

Fulham was allowed out under the First Offenders' Act; and Gilmour was sent to jail for one month with hard labour.

EYES OF ANIMALS TRANSPLANTED.

WONDERFUL—BUT USELESS.

By A Medical Correspondent.

There is a story, which we heard and believed in youth, that a surgeon can take out a human eye, wash it and put it back safely in its proper place.

The Vienna biologists with Przibram, Kammerer and Steiner at their head, have done many wonderful things during the last three years, and among them have achieved this seemingly impossible feat of taking out an eye and putting it back, not where it belonged, but into the eye socket of another animal.

The eye has survived in a number of instances, but it is no longer a seeing eye. Twice Dr. Koppanyi has demonstrated that the pupil of the transplanted eye has reacted—that is to say, has taken notice when a beam of light has been thrown upon it, but he was unable to produce any evidence that the brain behind the eye perceived anything.

Animal eyes can now be transplanted; that is certain, but they remain sightless. So what is the good of it?

No doubt the disappointment was to be expected, for none of the more highly organised tissues is ever replaced when it has been destroyed. A newt may grow a fresh tail, but a human being never reproduces so much as a finger. Nerve cells when destroyed are never regenerated, although the fibres may sprout out again from the end of a nerve which has been cut. But the eye is no mere nerve; it is really a part of the brain, and, once its stalk has been severed, no serious biologist would expect its function ever to be restored.

NEW ZEALAND TARIFFS.

CANADIAN MOTOR CAR EXPORTS AFFECTED.

OTTAWA.

The Federal Government has now received official notification of the New Zealand Government's intention as from April 1 to increase to 75 per cent. the proportion of British value required in goods to enter New Zealand under the British preferential tariff. This means that Canadian goods must be manufactured up to 75 per cent. in Canada. The effect of the decision will be most marked in respect of goods exported from Canada, but partially manufactured in the United States, such as motor cars. The total value of motor cars exported from here to New Zealand last year amounted to 5,247,000 dollars.—(Reuter.)

There is no doubt that arbitration is becoming more and more a practical method of settling disputes.—Mr. Tom Shaw (Minister of Labour).

AS the soil nourishes the tree-roots, the gums nourish the teeth. And as the tree decays if you bare the tree-roots, so do the teeth decay if the gums shrink down from the tooth-base.

This condition is common. It is known as Pyorrhea. Four out of five people who are over forty suffer from it. Ordinary tooth-pastes will not prevent it.

Forhan's For the Gums does prevent it if used in time and used consistently. So Forhan's For the Gums protects the tooth at the tooth-base which is unprotected by enamel.

On top of this Forhan's For the Gums preserves gums in their pink, normal, vital condition. Use it daily and their strengthened tissue-structure will vigorously support the teeth. They will not loosen. Neither will the mouth prematurely flatten through receding gums. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's For the Gums and consult a dentist.

RHEUMATISM

CURED after YEARS OF SUFFERING

Thousands of letters bear witness to the remarkable curative effects of Alkia Saltrates in cases of Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuritis and all Uric Acid Troubles.

The amazing effects it produces are difficult for anyone but a user to credit when simply stated in cold type.

The following letter is selected at random, and the original can be seen at any time.

"I have suffered for years with Neuritis in my hands, and can truly say that after using Alkia Saltrates I hardly realise it. My hands are almost their natural shape, the dead helpless feeling quite gone. It is worth its weight in gold, and I only hope to be able to recommend it to any fellow-sufferers should I have the opportunity to do so. At any time you may use my letter to show what a genuine valuable cure Alkia Saltrates is."

Alkia Saltrates tastes pleasant, never depresses, and, unlike strong purging salines, it does not flush out the vitally necessary digestive juices and intestinal fluids, hence it cannot have after-constipating or habit-forming effects. But it does clear the blood and system of the poisonous acids and impurities which form the root cause of practically all bodily ailments. Keep a bottle of Alkia Saltrates always available. It will save many a doctor's bill. Price of large bottle, sufficient to last the whole family for weeks, is only 3/3. All Chemists have it.

RECONSTRUCTION IN FRANCE.

GERMANY'S CONTRIBUTION ONLY ONE PER CENT.

France has spent 74 billion francs, of which Germany had paid a little over one per cent., in reconstructing the devastated regions. Of 4,690,183 inhabitants who lived in the areas in 1914, 4,253,677 have returned, and 605,989 out of 741,933 destroyed and damaged houses have been repaired and rebuilt. 145 coal mines out of 200 are again producing coal, and 20,872 factories and workshops out of a total of 22,900 destroyed and damaged, are now either working or shortly to start work.—(Reuter.)

CO-PARTNERSHIP SCHEMES.

"BETTER THAN COMMUNISM."

A paper entitled "Co-partnership Schemes and their Drafting Difficulties" was read by Mr. P. H. Edwards, of London, at the annual provincial meeting of the Law Society in Manchester, who, explaining the various schemes propounded, said that, in his opinion, the co-partnership productive societies, formed either by the workers themselves providing the original capital or by their at some stage acquiring the capital, were splendid examples, which proved that the worker could, by legal and constitutional methods, acquire a capital holding with much greater chance of success and happiness than was offered by any Communist confiscatory plan.

There was, however, so much distrust and suspicion between employers and employed that it was not advisable to suggest the starting of a co-partnership scheme until it had been fully explained, and, if possible, asked for by the men. Nearly every business required its own scheme—there could be no standard scheme to suit every business. Mr. Edwards proceeded to explain a scheme he had worked out to suit a business with very small capital and quick turnover, and employing a considerable number of workpeople. The scheme provided that all employés of the company should receive not less than the standard rate of wages. The holders of capital should receive a standard rate of interest of 2 per cent. per annum above the average Bank rate for the current year.

A part of the surplus net profits remaining after the payment of interest on the capital should be divided as follows:—Where the total annual payment for wages was less than 25 per cent. of the capital employed in the business, labour should receive not less than 10 per cent. of the surplus profits; where the payment exceeded 25 per cent. but was less than 50 per cent. of the capital employed, labour to receive not less than 20 per cent.; where the payment exceeded 50 per cent. but was less than 75 per cent. of the capital employed, labour to receive not less than 30 per cent.; where the payment exceeded 75 per cent. of the capital employed, labour to receive not less than 40 per cent.

If a good scheme were adopted the worker should certainly share in losses by the reduction of the capital value of his holding in the business.

BALLINASLOE SHOW.

GOOD DISPLAY OF HORSES, CATTLE AND SHEEP.

FARM AND GARDEN PRODUCE.

FROM OUR REPORTER.

BALLINASLOE, Monday.

Showery weather gave way to brilliant sunshine at the opening of the Ballinasloe District Agricultural Show, which took place to-day. The showyard on Lord Clancarty's estate always has been a scene of great activity on the first day of the great October Fair.

In 1917 there was a danger that the show would be wound up, but an active committee took the matter in hands, and, in spite of many difficulties during the succeeding years, the fixture was carried on without interruption. On this occasion the entries constituted a record. The classes for made and untrained hunters were among the best that have been seen at this centre, and competition all through was keen.

A similar remark applies to the cattle, which included some very well-bred bulls and good cows. Satisfactory entries were also received in the section for sheep, among which Roscommons were conspicuous. There were also fine displays of agricultural produce.

During the early part of the day the attendance was small, but it reached very large proportions during the afternoon, when the jumping and driving competitions took place.

Among the visitors present were:—The Earl of Essex, M.F.H., Galway Blazers; Lord HolmPatrick, Major-General Cullen, and Major-General McKeon.

To-day a show of dogs, with jumping competitions, will take place, the arrangements for showing the dogs providing for plenty of shelter and space.

The secretarial arrangements are in the capable hands of Mr. M. D. O'Carroll.

The Galway County Committee of Agriculture, in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, had an educational exhibit of great interest. This was divided into sections for agricultural, horticultural, and poultry exhibits. In the agricultural section were oats and barley of the more prolific types, samples of manures, and illustrations of their effect upon pastures. Feeding stuffs, diseases of crops and the remedies were also illustrated. The horticultural section comprised specimens of cooking and dessert fruit, together with examples of the packing of fruit and vegetables. A great deal of interest was taken in the butter-making demonstration, and also in the poultry-keeping department. In the latter was shown a specimen poultry-house, various appliances employed in the rearing and feeding of poultry, and also particulars as to the treatment of poultry diseases.

The following acted as judges:—

Horses, etc.—Messrs. B. O'Reilly, Booterstown; J. L. McKeever, Julianstown, Drogheda; P. J. Fitzmaurice, Elphin; John Murray, Strokestown.

Cattle and Rams—Messrs. R. H. Bond, Rathowen; and T. Satchwell Creggs.

IRISH GAME LAWS.

PLEA FOR PROTECTION.

Captain R. G. Stoker, Portarlington, writes to us to-day on the necessity for an adequate scheme of game and fish protection in the Free State.

Owing to the passing of the landlords and the breaking up of vast tracts into small holdings, sporting rights, Captain Stoker points out, are now in the hands of the farmer, who not only does not realise the value of "game," but greatly over-estimates the damage done to his crops.

On the subject of fish protection he says:—During the last few years every river and stream within the writer's notice has been systematically "netted," "torched," "speared," "stroke-hauled" and "night-lined," without stop or interference from anyone; thousands upon thousands of salmon and trout have been killed when spawning and openly bought and sold. Millions of salmon fry are netted or taken on night-line or rod by people who do not know the difference.

Very few game certificates are taken out; the Civic Guard are content with the production of a permit and gun (10s.) licence, and game are killed, bought and sold without any licence at all. Sunday shooting is the common practice, not the exception. Parties of men and boys, with sticks and dogs, have searched the country since the middle of June for nesting and immature birds and fur of all sorts. The majority of game birds have been killed before the "season" opened. Seven-eighths of the "permit"-holders in the Free State are comprised of the working classes, who are engaged in their various occupations six days in the week. Sundays and holidays are the only times they have leisure to enjoy their recreation. It is, therefore, doubtful if the Government will put a stop to the "Sunday shooting."

In practically every other country in the world—except the British Isles—Sunday is the recognised day for shooting, fishing or other form of sport, after Divine Service, and the Irish Game Association should consider the advisability of recommending the Dail to abolish the law restricting this. Taking a common-sense view of the matter, a man may partake of any other form of recreation or sport except shooting; the thing is absurd.

The Government, he suggests, might consider a change in the existing licensing laws to the benefit of everyone, and if the Game Association approached the Government with a definite scheme for the protection of wild birds, game and sporting fish, and are able to point out the national benefits and source of income such protection would ensure, they would be given a sympathetic hearing.

He submits the following points for the Association's consideration:—

That Wild Birds Protection and the Fisheries Conservancy Acts must be rigidly enforced and whole-time and knowledgable officials appointed to enforce them.

For this purpose money must be forthcoming to defray expenses, and this money should not be obtained by voluntary contributions, but by allocation of—(a) all sporting licences; (b) dog licences; (c) fresh water fishing and netting licences and royalties; (d) dealers' game licences; (e) a rod licence for all fishing in fresh water.

The official returns show the numbers of game licences taken out in the last two years, also the numbers of gun licences and "permits" issued, and it is obvious to anyone that the great majority of shooting-men only take out a gun licence, although they keep and train "game dogs" and shoot at "game" whenever the chance offers.

My suggestion is, Captain Stoker says, to "wash out" the gun and game licences, and issue in their place a general gun licence at £1 or £1 10s. per gun to cover all shooting. Leave the game dealer's licence at £2. "Wash out" the salmon rod licence and issue a general rod licence necessary for anyone who carries or uses a fishing rod in any fresh or tidal waters at, say, 5s. per rod. In the year 1918 26,679 licences were issued, bringing in a revenue of £18,002 10s. Working on these figures, if all licences were issued at £1 and dealers' at £2, it would mean an increase to the revenue of £8,800 10s. A general rod licence at 5s. per rod would mean a further increase of at least £10,000.

Appoint a special official in every district, whose duties would consist in keeping a list of all licence-holders, a supervision over all ground and rivers; empower him to collect returns of game killed and fish taken, to prosecute in cases of infringement, invoke the aid of the Civic Guard or other law officers when necessary, and make him responsible and accountable for his own area.

Captain Stoker also suggests that the Minister, conservators of fisheries, landowners, farmers' unions, fishing and coursing clubs should be invited to express their opinions with a view to the drawing up of a scheme for the consideration of the Government.

CROP-DRYING SECRET.

WEATHER-PROOF HARVESTS PREDICTED.

Has science at last made the farmer independent of the weather? Certain experimenters at the Institute of Agricultural Research at Oxford have been carrying out tests on a secret invention for drying crops, with results which are said to be extremely successful.

A demonstration is to be given in a few days. The Vice-Chancellor is keenly interested in the invention.

An official of the Ministry of Agriculture told a correspondent: "When the farmer's crop has grown he will probably be independent of the weather. The process will eliminate many of the machines that are now in use for harvesting the crop, whether corn, hay or roots."

The cost of the process, he admitted, was considerable, but it would increase the nutritive value of the crop by between 200 and 300 per cent. It was an entire contrast with the methods of crop drying which had engaged the attention of agriculturists for the past two or three years.

The invention is a secret, but it was stated it has resulted from the failure of experiments based on blowing cold air into stacks which had been allowed to ferment.

The Legal Diary will be found on page 10.

COW-TESTING.

MEATH FARMERS TAKE ACTION.

ASSOCIATIONS TO BE FORMED.

Steps to form cow-testing associations in the County Meath were taken at a meeting of farmers in Navan yesterday. A representative of the Department of Agriculture explained the advantages that would be derived from the formation of these societies all over the country.

THE EXAMPLE OF DENMARK.

POSSIBILITIES IN THE FREE STATE.

Mr. Daniel Corry, Chairman of the Meath Branch of the Farmers' Association, who presided, said that the meeting was convened at the instance of the Executive of the County Meath Farmers' Association. The Executive had been studying this matter of cow-testing for some time, and considering whether it was desirable to give the people of the county an opportunity of forming such an association. The Executive were satisfied that it would lead to very beneficial results.

Mr. Robert Lynch, of the Department of Agriculture, said that in their efforts to improve the milking qualities of the dairy cattle of the country, the Department for the past twelve years had been advocating the formation of cow-testing associations and the keeping of systematic milk records. In other countries, notably those which are competing with this country in the English market for butter and such products, much attention had been paid to this subject. In Denmark within the last thirty years the Danes had increased the average milking yield of the cows of that country by about 200 gallons. From 1861 up to the present they had almost trebled their milk supply. In Ireland the average milk yield was about 450 gallons. We had better material to work upon than the Danes had when they tackled the question. In the Saorstat there were one and a quarter million milk cows. If the milk yield of these cows could be increased by about 200 gallons, and valuing that milk at only sixpence a gallon, it would mean an additional income to the country of about six and a quarter million pounds.

Mr. Lynch then gave instances of what had been done in the South of Ireland in this connection, and, proceeding, said that it had been proved by those who keep milk records under the Department's dairy cattle and cow-testing schemes that there are many cows which give a yield of from 600 to 1,200 gallons. It was impossible to identify unprofitable cows except through the medium of milk records. The objections to cow-testing on the ground that it took time and was troublesome was erroneous. Continuing, he gave particulars of the necessary equipment and the cost, and what could be done in this matter by the Meath County Committee of Agriculture on lines similar to the County Cork Committee.

ASSOCIATIONS FOR MEATH.

The Chairman said that meetings of the various branches of the Association in the county would be specially called for the purpose of forming cow-testing associations. If they could form three associations, one for the centre of Meath in Navan, one for East Meath, and a third for Trim, they would cover all the country and would be convenient for those interested. One difficulty that presented itself to him was, that in Meath the dairies proper, as they knew them in Munster, were very few. The people of Meath, with few exceptions, did not depend upon dairy products for a livelihood or to meet the rent; they looked to grazing and pastures. He hoped that before another twelve months had passed they would be able to show to Mr. Lynch that they in Meath had done fairly well.

Admiral Waller proposed, and Mr. W. G. McKeever seconded, a vote of thanks to Mr. Lynch.

Mr. Lynch said that the best vote they could pay him was to get a good cow-testing association in the county.

The secretary (Mr. Martin) took down the names of those farmers present who wished to have their cows tested.

AMATEUR OPERA.

SUCCESSFUL PERFORMANCE IN BELFAST.

The Queen's Island, Belfast, Amateur Operatic Society secured a striking success last night in "The Mikado," which it is presenting during the present week in the Grand Opera House, Belfast, in aid of the Belfast hospitals. The society has been organised in the Queen's Island Shipyard of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, and, judging by the success of last night's performance, when a large audience encored the various solos and choruses, it has won for itself a high reputation among amateur operatic societies.

Mr. C. Cummins was a dignified, yet humorous, Mikado, while Mr. R. M. Kent, a tenor of outstanding ability, made a splendid impression as Nankipoo. Miss Gladys Lenies was a charming Yum Yum, with a voice of very pleasing quality. Mr. Archie Inglis was an undoubted success in the erratic part of Ko Ko, Lord High Executioner. The Pooh Bah of Mr. J. F. Sheldon was a treat, while the distraction of Katisha lost nothing in the charge of Miss Shadai Boal. A feature of the performance was the singing of the choruses, which were full of vigour, yet perfectly balanced, while the acting of all the parts, somewhat stilted upon the first night of an amateur performance, was remarkably free from self-consciousness, the performers entering upon their work with keenness and zest. The City Organist, Mr. C. J. Brennan, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., was the musical director and producer. He was ably assisted by Messrs. Fred Burrows, assistant musical director, William Minshull, assistant producer and stage manager, and J. Stirling, secretary. The dances were arranged by Miss Haines.

DEVELOPMENT OF ROSSLARE.

Mr. J. J. Ennis, at the meeting of Wexford Rural District Council, moved that a rate of 1d. in the £ should be struck for the purpose of developing and advertising Rosslare as a seaside resort.

Mr. M. Murphy seconded the proposal.

Mr. M. Doyle, T.D., expressed regret at having to oppose the motion. He said that during the past week he had received a plethora of letters from ratepayers, protesting against the striking of the proposed rate. He would like to see Rosslare developed, and was prepared to contribute voluntarily for the purpose, but he was not prepared to tax the poor people of the district.

The motion was rejected on a show of hands.

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1924.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Dr. Miller, the Bishop of Cashel, in a statement endorses the plea in the Irish Times yesterday that the Churches should appeal to both Irish Governments to meet in order to arrive at a settlement of the boundary problem.—(Page 5.)

It is believed that within the next week the Free State Ministry of Industry and Commerce will set up its advisory committee under the Trade Loans (Guarantee) Act.—(Page 5.)

At a meeting of Meath farmers in Navan yesterday steps were taken to form cow-testing associations in the county.—(Page 3.)

In an address to the Cork Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Mr. J. J. Walsh claimed that the sixpenny tax on imported parcels would increase Irish trade and employment.—(Page 5.)

The Ballinasloe Agricultural Show was opened yesterday. There was a first-rate display of horses, cattle, sheep, farm and garden produce.—(Page 3.)

GREAT BRITAIN

A general election as the result of the motions in the House of Commons to-morrow seems inevitable.—(Page 5.)

Many speeches on the political situation were delivered last night.—(Page 5.)

"We shall leave no stone unturned to promote a settlement for the good of the whole of Ireland and of Great Britain," said Mr. Macdonald when interviewed on the boundary question by Mr. Wickham Steed.—(Page 5.)

SPORTING

At Nottingham yesterday Chapeau won the Nottingham Handicap.—(Page 8.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were in a hesitating mood yesterday, and prices on balance were lower than on Friday.—(Page 9.)

Money was in abundant supply, and the amount due to the Bank of England was repaid. Overnight loans were general at 2¼-⅜ per cent. Inter-Allied exchanges were dull.—(Page 9.)

In Dublin National Loan further rose to 92⅝, and Guinness Shares improved to 47 7-16. Johnston Mooney Ordinary fell to 50s.—(Page 9.)

The Sixpenny Tax.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs was on his defence in Cork yesterday, when he tried to convince a special meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce that his new sixpenny tax on imported parcels was a good thing. His defence of this tax was ingenious. The number of postal packets which enter the Free State exceeds the number which leaves it by about two million parcels per annum. The British Government allows the Free State Post Office threepence per parcel for delivery, with the result that the handling of British goods for Irish consumption constitutes a permanent drain on the Free State Exchequer. According to Mr. Walsh, the minimum cost of the delivery of a postal packet is sixpence. Therefore, on his reckoning, the Free State was losing two million threepences every year—in other words, £25,000; and, moreover, was encouraging trade with British firms at the expense of local enterprise. For that reason the sixpenny tax was imposed on all imported parcels. In Mr. Walsh's words, it killed three birds with one stone. It provided for the covering of the yearly deficit on the parcel post; it tended to discourage business with big distributing firms in England, and it gave the Free State Post Office an opportunity of reducing its domestic parcel rates. In the circumstances Mr. Walsh might have gone even further. The Post Office is working at a loss of £650,000 a year. Why should he not impose a tax on all incoming letters, which, doubtless, are greater in number than those that leave the country? There are a dozen ways in which the Post Office might raise additional revenue; and for every one of them just as good a case could be made as that which Mr. Walsh made for the sixpenny tax.

The plain truth is that it is a thoroughly bad tax. In the first place, the Post Office is an administrative department and has no right to initiate policy. In this case a new tax has been imposed with the expressed purpose of acting as a protective tariff against imported goods. So far as we know, the Dail, which alone is responsible for matters of fiscal policy, never sanctioned such an impost. In the next place, we doubt very much whether the tax will prevent a single shilling's worth of English goods from entering the Free State. Mr. Walsh must know perfectly well that nobody in this island is so foolish as to wish to buy goods in London if they can be purchased on equal terms here. The man who buys on the mail order system from London or Manchester probably could get the same article in a Dublin shop; but by purchasing direct he evades middlemen's profits. His procedure now is simple. The difference of sixpence in the price of an article hardly would justify anybody in ordering it from England when it could be had in a few minutes at a local shop, and, consequently, the tax will apply chiefly to goods of substantial value. If they are sufficiently valuable, the purchaser will accept the additional sixpence as an inevitable increase in his cost of living. If they are very cheap things, he probably will order two or three of them instead of the one which he would have ordered previously.

Mr. Walsh's sixpenny tax applies to Northern Ireland as well as to England. If a man who lives on one side of Pettigo Bridge wishes to send a pound of butter to a friend on the other side, we presume that he must pay his sixpence, whether he sends his parcel by post or merely hands it across the border. This sort of irritating restriction on normal business relations between the two Irish States is enormously harmful, and when it is imposed on the top of a score of other pin-pricking taxes and prohibitions it becomes positively dangerous. The Free State Government seems to be building up an intricate structure of tariffs and regulations athwart the narrow path which still remains open towards Irish unity. Surely all our efforts ought to be in precisely the opposite direction. From the commercial point of view the sixpenny tax is useless. In fact, it is mischievous in so far as it places new obstacles in the way of trade, and we refuse to be impressed by Mr. Walsh's assertion that the business community has welcomed it. From the political point of view there is not a single valid argument in its favour. It is high time that a halt should be called. The people of this country cannot continue to support a burden of taxation, direct and indirect, which, we venture to say, is heavier than that of any other community in Christendom. If the Post Office does not pay its way, expenses must be reduced, not by the curtailment of essential services, but by a thorough reorganisation of the whole system, with its cumbersome machinery, its multiplicity of officials and its lamentable lack of business method.

American Politics.

The Presidential election in the United States is only four weeks distant, but as yet there is little evidence of popular excitement in the coming struggle. President Coolidge is maintaining the Sphinx-like attitude on which his political reputation is based. The other two candidates have been more active. Mr. J. W. Davis, the representative of the Democratic Party, has made a tour of the Middle West, during which he has covered five thousand miles and has come into contact with a large number of voters to whom he was unknown. Closer acquaintance with the voters in the West has increased his hopes of success, although he has made no important statement of his policy. Mr. La Follette, the Independent candidate, has shown much of his old prowess and indefatigable spirit in speech-making, with the result that he has won a large measure of support. Well-informed opinion in the United States, however, rates his chances of election to the Presidency low, and the issue seems to lie between the Democrats and the Republicans. The more support that Mr. La Follette receives, the greater become the hopes of Mr. Davis and his party. If the polling is sufficiently close to require an appeal to the House of Representatives, it is expected confidently that Mr. Davis will be elected. Moreover, Mr. La Follette is winning support from elements of the population that would vote otherwise on the side of the Republicans. These elements include the German-Americans, to whom he has made a direct appeal. His previous record as a sympathiser with Germany, which endangered his position in the Senate during the war, now stands him in good stead. Mr. Davis also is attacking the Republicans in one of their strongholds, and there appears to be a good prospect that many negro voters will renounce their Republican allegiance in his favour on account of his denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan. Mr. Coolidge's position as President is at once his strength and his weakness. No doubt, many uncertain voters will give their support to the "man in possession"; but the record of the Republican Government gives his opponents an opportunity for criticism which they have been quick to seize. Both Mr. La Follette and Mr. Davis have denounced the oil scandal, the high taxation and other instances of Republican inefficiency and corruption. Mr. Hughes, the Secretary of State, opened the Republican campaign last Saturday, at Ohio, with a speech which dealt chiefly with foreign relations. He pointed with pride to the achievements of the Government in this sphere—the Washington Conference and the Dawes plan. He explained the case for aloofness from the League of Nations and for refusal to pledge the United States to intervention in European affairs. Mr. Davis, on the other hand, is well disposed to the League, although he has declined to make this question an issue in the electoral conflict. Until further evidence of popular interest is forthcoming it is impossible to forecast the verdict of the 4th November. Mr. Davis is expected to score rather heavily in the South, but the present view of the situation among trustworthy observers is that a defeat for Mr. Coolidge would be in the nature of a mild surprise. So far as Europe is concerned, the chief interest lies in the conflicting attitudes of the candidates towards foreign politics. A victory for the Democrats would mean, in Mr. Davis's words, a "return to the idealism of President Wilson."

Sweepstakes.

We are glad to learn that the Minister of Justice intends to enforce the Lotteries Act strictly in the Free State. "Flag day" collections multiplied so largely that they became a positive pest; and if they are now somewhat less frequent, the explanation may be that the public began indiscriminately to refuse to contribute to these charitable imposts. If we are approached more seldom by young people eager to decorate us with flags which indicate that we have fulfilled this or that society's expectation, we are pestered too often with another variety of collector—the young woman who "has tickets to sell." Sometimes mere children are met on the public road, collecting sixpences in return for lottery tickets, and the plea of a charity, united to the prospect of handsome prizes, persuades our amiable public to part easily with its silver. What proportion of the money collected reaches its ostensible destination, and what effect is wrought on the characters of the young people who accost strangers, are questions that do not seem to receive due consideration. On all scores the prevalence of the "sweep" habit is bad; and most of all is it pernicious in that it associates charity with the habit of gambling. We are glad that henceforward hospitals and churches will be under no temptation to increase their resources by means of sweepstakes. Nevertheless, we think that Mr. Kevin O'Higgins would have done better to announce his laudable intention at an earlier date. Many social clubs and other bodies have undertaken heavy commitments in preparation for Christmas "sweeps," and some may be tempted to evade the law in order to escape losses. If the regulations should be relaxed this season, it will be comforting to know that this will be the last Christmas that will be celebrated with orgies of charitable gambling.

The Living Past.

At a conference in Southampton of university and secondary schoolmasters several speakers mentioned the neglect of world-history as a grave defect in modern education. The Reverend E. S. Lyttel, of Southampton University College, said that no student who came to him knew anything of history save that of his own country. The crass ignorance of European history was extraordinary, especially since British history could not be understood apart from the story of Europe. Local history has its importance. It is well that young people should be told of the old deeds of strife and lost endeavour which have woven romance about the land, and should be encouraged thus in an imaginative love of scenes—

> past telling dear
> To unknown generations of dead men.

More important, however, is a knowledge of the great movements of humanity and the wrestlings of the soul of man which have shaped our intellectual world and determined the birth-right of every human soul. National history, unrelated to universal history, may foster arrogance instead of piety, and self-satisfaction instead of the spirit of endeavour. Indeed, without a knowledge of the broad outlines of world-history, national history cannot be read aright. Our letters, our speech, our art of building and our religious beliefs—all came to us from far lands, and the subtleties of our language, our art and our philosophy reflect achievements of the European intellect in the schools of Athens and the meeting places of the scholars of the Renaissance. Only by realising thus that civilisation is a unity can men possess a due sense of proportion. The subversive doctrines and the ugly art of modern times come from a revolt against the living past.

The King and Queen will remove their Court to London on Friday. This will be a few days later than they originally intended, and a full week later than is the usual custom. Only a brief stay will be made in London before their Majesties go to Sandringham. THE CHURCHES AND PEACE.

LETTER FROM MR. MACCABE, T.D.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I be permitted, as an individual member of Dail Eireann, to echo the sentiments to which you give expression in your leading article of to-day on the boundary issue? We have unfortunately deserted Christianity for Religion in this country, and it is only our teachers and preachers who can bring us back to it. Going back to Christianity means peace and good-will among Irishmen, as it does among all men; and it is on these only that the foundations of a really united Ireland can ever be laid.

Passing by the demolished obelisk on the Boyne a few weeks ago, I was reminded by a strange irony of that monumental expression of Christianity on the Andes, to which your correspondent refers; and the thought struck me: Here is a monument typefying an era in Irish history, with nothing but bitter memories for all of us. It is now a shattered ruin—the work of somebody who thought that he was striking a blow for Ireland. Perhaps he was. If we could make it the occasion of the passing of the era which the Boyne typefies, his passion would have created a monumental work, even as it lies. But in my mind I pictured a nobler pile beside it, to symbolise the opening of the new era, and wondered how long we should have to wait to see it materialise. If your appeal to the Christian instinct in our Church leaders meets with the response which it deserves, I feel that it will not be long.—Yours, etc.,

A. MACCABE.

Leinster House, Dublin,
October 6th, 1924.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—There is a general desire that the difference between Northern and Southern Ireland should be settled by agreement, but no one has so far been able to propose terms acceptable to both sides, and in the background there is the menace of the use of force to compel one or other party to submit to a settlement to which they are opposed. I would appeal to the Government and people of the Irish Free State to say definitely that they will not use force, directly or indirectly, to compel Northern Ireland to submit to a settlement to which they are opposed. We are all fellow-countrymen and profess to be Christians. It is surely contrary to the teaching of Our Lord and Saviour to use violence to one another.

The present condition of Europe is sufficient proof that victory gained by force fails entirely to accomplish the objects of the victors. The condition of Europe is the result of setting aside the will of God. Ireland might present to the world an example of what can be accomplished by obedience to Christ's commands. I refrain from any argument as to what would be the effect of a determination not to use violence towards the North. I urge a venture of faith that those who believe in Christ should trust that, if we seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, all other things will be added unto us.—Yours, etc.,

CHARLES EASON.

80 Middle Abbey street, Dublin,
October 6th, 1924.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The suggestion contained in the leading article in to-day's Irish Times will surely appeal to all Irishmen, North and South, of every creed, as most people are beginning to realise that the division of our country is a national question, and not merely one of party politics. In reference to the recent speeches of some politicians regarding this question, people outside Ireland might be led to believe that all the Protestants were in the six counties and all the Roman Catholics in the Free State, and that, if a Protestant stepped over the border, he would be scalped. Those politicians who speak of not allowing one Protestant against his wish to be subject to the Free State Government appear to have forgotten that in the Free State there are about 400,000 Protestants who have no more particular cause of complaint against the Free State Government than the average Englishman has against the British Government. Many, no doubt, could find fault with the Government for some more or less personal disappointments, but these things are bound to happen in all radical changes of government such as has happened here; and when one considers what the Executive has had to deal with—a totally new form of government coming into being after a revolution, and then having to deal with virtually a civil war—it is remarkable that they have done so well.

This question of the boundary is sure to be viewed more or less as a religious one, as those who are opposing the wish of the great majority of Irishmen for a united Ireland are the majority of Protestants in the six county area. Consequently, it appears to be the duty of the Protestants of the Free State, all of whom wish to see a united Ireland, to use their best efforts to allay any fears our Northern co-religionists may have in regard to unity with the South; and it is reasonable to believe that the desire of 400,000 Southern Protestants for unity with the North could not fail to evoke a response from at least some of our Northern fellow-Protestants who are not adverse to the ideal of a united Ireland.

A small body representative of Northern and Southern Protestants, acting as intermediaries between the two Governments, might, with God's blessing, be the means of bringing about the only permanent agreement possible—a united Ireland. Both Mr. Cosgrave and Sir James Craig must know that, whatever the decision of the Commission, only bitterness and ill-feeling will result. The boundary can never be settled, because, so long as there is a boundary, the wrangle will go on.—Yours, etc.,

ESMONDE W. LITTLE.

22 Mountjoy square, Dublin,
October 6th, 1924.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Nothing has given me more pleasure recently than the perusal of the very sane letter of "M. A. K. T.," and your comments on it. Things in Ireland, in all conscience, are in a perilous condition, but every sensible man feels that, if the present drift on the boundary question is allowed to continue, our country will soon be landed in a hopeless tragedy, requiring centuries to clear up.

Ireland, both North and South, despite all her past, is, perhaps, the most Christian country in the world, and surely it will be a sad comment on our Churches, bishops, clergy and people of all denominations if, even at this eleventh hour, some modus vivendi, other than fratricide, cannot be discovered. What Chile and the Argentine were able to accomplish in the Name of Christ, is surely not impossible of achievement in the case of Christian Ireland. One feels that the last word has not yet been spoken, and that, apart from politics, outworn shibboleths and traditions, the Christian consciences of leaders and people only require to be awakened for peace and good-will to prevail.

Irishmen all the world over are well known for their sportsmanlike character. We may have our private and domestic differences, but in the face of the world at large we resent any aspersion on our national life and character. Despite our different creeds, we are Christians, Irishmen and brothers. To-day we look to our Christian leaders for guidance and help. Let us not give the heathen occasion to say, "Behold how these Christians hate one another."—Yours, etc.,

Sir James Hope Simpson, a director, and formerly general manager of the Bank of Liverpool, and Martins, Limited, died in London on Sunday evening. Sir James, who was born in 1864, was created a knight in 1917.

MR. WALTER EAST.

The death occurred at Cowes on Sunday of Mr. Walter East, former Mayor of Kingston-on-Thames, a man of some attainment in scientific subjects. He was 81 years of age, and had resided at Cowes for several years.

PRINCE OLAF FOR OXFORD.

The Queen of Norway and her only son, Prince Olaf, who arrived at Sandringham yesterday from Christiania, via Newcastle, are not coming to London at present, but will stay at Appleton House, their own residence on the Sandringham estate. Prince Olaf, after a brief stay at Sandringham, will proceed to Oxford, and will go into residence at Balliol College.

"LILAC TIME."

A WORK OF CHARM AT THE GAIETY.

"Lilac Time" is back at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, this week. What Dublin thought of it when it was here last year is told by the accounts of the advance booking of seats and by the numbers of people who sought admission to the theatre last night.

This musical play, making use of facts of Schubert's life, and examples of Schubert's music, is by now so well reputed that Dublin needs to know only whether the company performing it is good. It is. No one need have fear of suffering disappointment. Mr. Frederick Blamey, a tenor with grand opera experience (in a Beecham company, too), is in the part of Franz Schubert, and in "Hark, hark the lark," "Under the lilac bough," "Dream enthralling," "The flower," and "I want to carve your name," his singing was delightful. He is taller than Schubert was, but, with a clever make-up, he presented a portrait that was close enough to the appearance of the composer as left on record.

As Lili Veit, object of Schubert's affection, Miss Rose Hignell appeared as a daintly charming figure, and sang very sweetly in the duets and concerted numbers. So far as acting goes, these are straightforward parts: the real acting parts are those of the Marini and Christian Veit. In these Miss Maria Minetti and Mr. Lionel Victor were extremely clever: one cannot imagine the parts of the mercurial ballerina and the old glass-maker being presented more truly in the spirit of comedy. Mr. Arthur Hosking as Baron Franz von Schober had a singing and an acting part, and was satisfactory in both respects. These were the most prominent members of a big company, but every part was well cast and no shortcoming was to be discovered.

"Lilac Time" should live long. Its music has stood the test of a century already, and in association with the pretty and pathetic story here told, with the beautiful stage pictures presented in such perfect detail, with all that is in the play to recall a Vienna of honeyed romance, and with abundant flavouring of humorous and sentimental episodes, that imperishable music will find a place in the affections of many who might not otherwise have come under its spell.

And may the moralist here come in to say that the warm place quickly gained by "Lilac Time" in the hearts of playgoers proves that the public, when it is given a fair chance, likes the best music best?

ZAGHLUL PASHA'S RETURN.

FAREWELL MESSAGE TO BRITAIN.

Reuter's Agency has received the following message from the Egyptian Premier on the occasion of his departure:—

Before leaving England, Zaghlul Pasha wishes to thank the British Press for its courtesy. The Egyptian Premier departs with the conviction that the day of justice for Egypt will dawn, and that the Egyptian people will obtain the success that it merits by the depth of its patriotism and the greatness of its civilisation. England will understand the price of Egyptian friendship, and will be convinced that an Egypt allied and peaceful is worth more to the Empire than an Egypt hostile and oppressed. To hasten the advent of that day the Egyptian Premier relies on the British people's sense of justice, and he likes to believe that the statesmen of the Empire will allow themselves soon to be inspired by that spirit of justice and international peace which must henceforth guide the policies of the great democracies, and take the place of the conception of domination and mistrust which will envenom the relations of the nations.

MADAME GALLI-CURCI.

ARRIVES IN ENGLAND TO-DAY.

Mme. Galli-Curci, the American singer, who is to appear in Dublin this season, arrives at Plymouth to-day. Though she has never before been in Great Britain, the gramaphone has made her voice known in every corner of the kingdom.

Nine months ago her visit to England was announced. Within 14 days all 20,000 tickets available for her two concerts at the Albert Hall in London were sold.

She went to the Royal Conservatory at Milan, and at the age of 16 received her diploma for pianoforte playing. She had no money for singing lessons, and between the visits of her pianoforte pupils this Italian girl taught herself from any book on singing she could borrow. A family friend, an opera director, Colucci, heard her singing one night and offered her an engagement to sing Gilda in "Rigoletto."

Next came an engagement at Pisa, and gradually she sang her way to New York in 1916, when Campanini reluctantly gave her a hearing. On November 18, 1917, she made her début in opera in Chicago.

Madame Galli-Curci's first concert is at the Albert Hall, London, next Sunday. She will sing at some 20 concerts in London, Scotland and Ireland before December.

RED CROSS RELIEF.

INDIRECT COST OF ARMAMENTS.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

President Coolidge, speaking at the annual meeting of the American Red Cross Organisation, humourously referred to the organisation as the only society that he knew which accomplished good by looking for trouble. Mr. Coolidge pictured a world where the costs of armament, fortifications and pensions were not required to be borne, and whose resources could be used for the promotion of happiness, instead of its destruction. Mighty works, he predicted, would then be possible under the Red Cross spirit, including the relief of poverty, ignorance and all uncharitableness.—(Reuter.)

THE PRINCESS MARY.

The Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles did not travel to London yesterday from Goldsborough as was originally expected. They will make the journey shortly and will be in London for a few days.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The main depression, centred off the Hebrides, is moving north-westward, and secondaries are crossing the British Isles from the Atlantic. Winds will be mainly between south and west, with generally unsettled weather, but considerable bright intervals in most parts of the Kingdom.

Ireland.—South-westerly winds, strong at times; occasional rain or showers, but considerable bright periods; visibility mainly good; moderate to rather low temperature.

All Irish Seaboards.—Wind south-westerly or westerly, strong or high, squally; occasional rain or showers; considerable bright intervals; visibility good; sea rough.

THE CABINET'S DECISION.

ELECTION NOW INEVITABLE.

PARTY MEETINGS.

CONSERVATIVES IN COUNCIL.

PREMIER'S SPEECH TO-DAY.

It appears to be almost certain that the British Labour Government will fall to-morrow. No other view is possible after reading the authoritative statement by Mr. Ben Spoor, the Chief Government Whip, which was issued at the conclusion of the two hours' Cabinet meeting last evening to the effect that the Government would offer the firmest opposition to both the Unionist vote of censure and the Liberal amendment. It is expected that after the vote in the House of Commons Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, with the full concurrence of his Ministers, will seek a dissolution of Parliament, to be followed by a general election.

The Cabinet last evening, in addition to endorsing the Premier's attitude of "no surrender" to the Liberals, settled practically the procedure which is to be adopted during to-morrow's fateful debate.

This morning, at nine o'clock, the Prime Minister and the members of the Cabinet are to meet the National Executive of the Labour Party. After a discussion, based upon yesterday's Cabinet decision, the Ministers and the Executive of the Labour Party will proceed to the Queen's Hall, Langham place, London, for the opening of the National Conference of the Labour Party. It is here that the Prime Minister will review the Cabinet's resolve to face the public of the country at once, rather than accept the humiliation of defeat on the censure motion and then wait for a second rebuff in November over the question of the Russian Treaty.

The Government will offer the firmest opposition to both the Unionist vote of censure and the Liberal amendment. In our view there is no essential difference between the two.—Mr. Ben Spoor.

Another important preliminary to the debate in the House of Commons will be a meeting to-morrow morning of the Parliamentary Labour Party, at which the Prime Minister is expected to speak.

Meanwhile (says the Press Association) the situation is being closely watched by the Conservatives, who are tuning up their electioneering machinery in readiness for what, in their opinion, is an imminent contest in the constituencies. Frequent informal conversations have been taking place at every succeeding phase of the situation between Mr. Baldwin and his colleagues, and, now that the Government's intentions are clear, a full meeting of the "Shadow Cabinet" is expected to take place to-day.

CONSERVATIVES MAY RETURN TO POWER.

LABOUR CABINET REFUSES MIDDLE COURSE.

FROM THE CENTRAL NEWS LOBBY CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

Only an unforseen event can now avert the defeat of the Government on Wednesday night. The die was cast by to-day's Cabinet meeting, which resolved, in effect, to defy and even to encourage the House to turn them out. Whether it is a wise move for the Government time alone can tell. The Liberal amendment to be moved by Sir John Simon is indistinguishable, in the opinion of the Cabinet, from the vote of censure which Sir Robert Horne is to move on behalf of the Unionists. Both are votes of censure, they say.

The Government's attitude in the debate will be daring, perhaps even to the verge of theatricality. It is foreshadowed that they will go back over recent history and produce mistakes made by other Attorney-Generals. They will not apologise for Sir Patrick Hastings, but will stand by him, and maintain that his mistake has been no greater than others which have had no sequel in votes of censure.

A middle way offered itself as between the Unionist vote of censure and the Liberal amendment for a Select Committee. This middle way, which I understand that Mr. Harney, K.C., M.P. for South Shields, regards as the proper course for the Government to accept, was to refer Sir Patrick Hasting's withdrawal of the Campbell prosecution to a judicial inquiry.

STATE OF PARTIES.

State of the parties now compared with before and after the General Election of December 6th last year:

	Before last election.	After last election.	Now*
Conservatives..	345	258	258
†Liberals ...	119	158	158
Labour	143	191	193
Independent ..	8	8	5

*One vacancy (London University, a seat held by the Conservatives).

†Independent Liberals 65, National Liberals 54.

The Government reject this suggestion on the ground that the vote of censure is on the whole Government, and it is impossible to have a judicial inquiry on the Government.

A piquant feature of the situation is the bitterness between Liberal and Labour members. The Labour people regard the Liberals as the cause of the trouble by their amendment. On the other hand, the Liberals, while some of them undoubtedly regret that the amendment was put down, can, and do, point to the constant abuse which certain members of the Government have heaped upon them.

The next deliverance on the situation will be that of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald at the Labour Party Conference at Queen's Hall tomorrow morning.

One effect of the crisis is to subordinate many minor domestic matters which are to be raised there, as Mr. Macdonald's speech will now overshadow everything. The Labour delegates will also have to view the situation from an entirely new angle, as they must visualise the possibility that Labour will be out of office as soon as the general election is over.

It is possible that Mr. J. R. Campbell, the Communist whose article is the original cause of Wednesday's debate on the fate of the Government, will be present as a delegate at the Labour Party Conference.

The Campbell prosecution, however, is admitted by all parties to be what Mr. Macdonald has called it—a side issue. The election will be fought on the Russian Treaty mainly. It is unlikely that the crisis would have developed so acutely on the Campbell affair but for the Russian Treaty in the immediate background.

What is on the horizon now is the disappearance of the Labour Government and the return of the Unionist Party to power. It is the largest party at present, and the chances are believed to be good that it will increase its strength. Mr. Baldwin had an informal talk to-day with some of his colleagues at the party headquarters, and tomorrow the Unionist "Shadow Cabinet" will meet formally after the substance of Mr. Macdonald's speech to the Labour Conference is known.

Whether the Unionists can anticipate an increase of numbers which would make them independent of Liberal support is doubtful.

It is reported from Paisley to-night that Mr. Asquith has postponed his Scottish speech on Thursday in view of the situation.

BRITISH CRISIS.

POINTS FROM LAST NIGHT'S SPEECHES.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain:

This gathering may be the opening shot in a campaign which will decide how this country is to be governed for the next ten years. I believe that the people of this country are not fools, and I have confidence that they will pronounce a shattering verdict against a proposal so obviously dishonest and so transparently a sham as the Russian Loan. We hold ourselves free to introduce a new Safeguarding of Industries Bill that will be more elastic than the last.—At Rugby.

Col. Amery, Ex-First Lord of the Admiralty:

An urgent and momentous issue has arisen—momentous not so much because it may involve the fall of the Government before the week is out—but because it raises the question whether British administration of justice should be maintained as it always has been—absolutely impartial and free from interference by the Government of the day. If there is one thing Englishmen pride themselves on it is that we live under what is called the reign of the law, having the same rights and the same chances before the courts. This great British tradition has received a very serious set-back owing to political interference with the due course of justice in the case of the prosecution of the editor of the Workers' Weekly.

This has caused a profound shock throughout the country. When the country realised that this same section, which forced the Government against its will into a Russian Treaty, was also prepared to pervert the courts of law, it was felt that something must be done. Sir Patrick Hastings certainly showed a carelessness and incompetence which disqualified him for the office he held.

As far as I am concerned, I do not mind very much if the Government is killed this week or at the beginning of next month, so long as it is killed. It is said that those whom the gods loved died young, but the early death of the Government would not be due to any special affection for it in any region above, around, or below, but to its utter failure to deal with the urgent needs of the time, and to the proof it has given that, however moderate its professions, it is liable to do what it knew to be wrong under pressure from the extremist element.—At Birmingham.

Mr. Lloyd George:

The real reason why the country is to be forced into the third election in two years is that a body of extremists behind the Prime Minister have compelled him to take a course which he, himself, was opposed to some time ago. Of the two questions creating the crisis the first is the Government's action under political pressure in interfering with the course of justice—the most serious thing that could happen in a great, free, democratic country like this. For the Prime Minister to put the country to the expense and inconvenience of a general election rather than have an inquiry by the House of Commons is an outrage upon the prerogative.

Then there is the question of guaranteeing a loan to Russia, for which there is no security for repayment, and no security for proper expenditure. It is not a question of recognising Russia. We have recognised the Turks, and there is nothing to choose between them. It is not a question either of trading with Russia. It is a different proposition to lend tens of millions of money at the risk of the British taxpayer to the Bolshevik Government. I ask trade unionists whether they would recommend their councils to advance the money of their unions to Russia? If none of the trade union leaders, who support the present Government, would put the money of their unions, whatever the rate of interest, into Russian securities, what right have they to ask the British taxpayers to do so?

At the last election many fantastic schemes were placed before the country by the Socialist Party. The capital levy—where was it now? It had gone for a holiday, or into winter quarters. But with all the wild schemes no Socialist or Labour candidate declared in his election address that, if his party came into power, they would advance money at the expense of the taxpayers to Russia.—At Leicester.

Mr. Ernest Bevan, Secretary of the Transport Workers' Union:

The Labour movement is faced with a crisis on the political side, and the time has arrived when there should be a very clear understanding between the political wing and the industrial. We are anxious to avoid strike action as far as possible, but we cannot sacrifice our people—that is too big a price to pay. The Prime Minister will be well advised to have a thorough interchange of views with the leaders of the large Trade Unions in order to arrive at the best method of handling trade union problems. A thorough overhaul of the Labour Ministry machinery and personnel is absolutely essential.—At Glasgow.

Mr. Ben Spoor, Chief Government Whip:

Liberals and Tories, apparently unwilling to fight on a really big issue, are seeking to exploit, for purely party purposes, what is, after all, a comparatively trivial incident in administration. They are striving to promote passion and prejudice on the alleged interference with the course of justice. That the allegation is wickedly untrue they know full well, but it serves their immediate purpose, which is to discredit Labour at all cost. Now it looks like a fight, and, mark my word, Labour will fight. To Liberal and Tory leaders alike we say, "Instead of helping us in the great crisis of national and international moment, you have indulged in foolish comment or patronising criticism. The time for this has passed. Let the country say whether it wants you or us. Labour is ready. Against us is a powerful Press, immense supplies of cash, big financial interests, and selfish privilege. For us, and with us, are the common people, with their faith in a great cause, their hunger for justice and equality, their demand for real freedom. Nothing can withstand this growing human movement, which has its roots in human needs and human ideals. We shall win, and win decisively."—At Ealing (Middlesex).

Mr. Frank Hodges, Civil Lord of the Admiralty:

I have heard it publicly stated that the great services like the Navy and Army would never take kindly to Labour, and that the Admiralty and the Army Council would be offended and would boycott Labour political chiefs. There never was uttered a more foul slander. Those men are all devoted to the State.—At Wigan.

Mr. Sidney Webb, President Board of Trade:

The Government will not hold office for a single day after they have been given notice to quit. It is because they are prepared for an appeal to the whole electorate that the Liberals shrink from it, and are always trying underhand dodges, instead of coming boldly out into the open with a vote of censure. The Unionists had done it, but the Liberals had not. The Government will resist the vote of censure, and if they go down they will bring the issue before the electorate.—At Cambridge.

THE DUBLIN FISH MARKET.

NEW STAFF ON DUTY TO-DAY.

The dispute in the Dublin Corporation Fish Market comes to a head this morning, when a new staff, employed by the salesmen, will start work in place of those who refused to remain in their employment along with one man, a member of the Transport Workers' Union.

The number of men, all of whom are members of the Transport Union, who have been taken on is less than the old staff, because for a considerable time past there was not sufficient work for all. The salesmen kept them on at a minimum wage of £3 per week rather than dispense with the services of any of them.

TRADE LOANS.

PUTTING THE NEW ACT INTO OPERATION.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO BE APPOINTED.

FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

There is good reason for hoping that within the next week a definite step will be taken by the Free State Ministry of Industry and Commerce in the direction of administering the Trade Loans (Guarantee) Act by the appointment of the Advisory Committee for which provision is made under Sections I. and II. of the measure. The equivalent of the British Trades Facilities Act, the Trade Loans (Guarantee) Bill was introduced in the Dail on 20th of June last for the purpose of relieving unemployment and compelling a reduction in the prices of essential commodities in the Free State. The recent "appropriate" increase of a penny a quart in the price of milk—presumably an "essential commodity"—has focussed attention upon the apparent inactivity of the Government in the matter of giving effect to their chief legislative measure for the protection of the consumer. It is a couple of months ago now since the bill received the assent of the Governor-General and was placed on the Statute Book as the law of the land. It remains in force for a period of twelve months, but, pleasurable as the anticipation might be, there is no ground for the hope that it will be in actual or effective operation by the end of the present month. It is so much to the good, however, that a definite step will be taken in the course of the next week towards putting the measure to practical use.

No little difficulty has been experienced in the matter of the appointment of the Advisory Committee for which the Act provides. It is understood that the Committee will consist of four members. It has not been easy to select persons suitable in every respect for the performance of the duties that will devolve on them. The Committee will be required to advise the Minister of Industry and Commerce as to the very best possible application of a large sum of money set aside for the purposes of the Act. It may be as well to state here the aim of the measure, as set forth in the title. It is as follows:—

"To enable the Ministry of Industry and Commerce to guarantee certain classes of loans, the application of which is calculated to promote employment in Saorstat Eireann, and to grant or guarantee certain classes of loans, the application of which is calculated to promote a reduction in the retail prices in Saorstat Eireann of certain essential commodities, and to make provision for the application of public moneys in or towards the fulfilling of such guarantees and the granting of such loans."

When the bill was introduced last June it was pointed out that the Government felt that the most effective way to reduce prices was not by controlling prices, but by guaranteeing loans to purchasers or consumers—or a combination of both—who would agree to sell the essential articles at reasonable prices. It will be the business of the Advisory Committee to examine all schemes submitted to the Minister as practicable proposals for either the relief of unemployment, or the reduction of the prices of essential commodities.

The Committee, I understand, will be appointed within the course of another week, and the names of the members will be published in the Dublin Gazette. The Committee's terms of reference will be very definite, and, in advising the allocation of the money set aside for the purposes of the Act, the Committee will be governed by the two important considerations:—(1) Is the expenditure of this particular sum likely to promote employment, and (2) is the guarantee likely to reduce the retail prices of essential commodities? The members of the Committee will not necessarily be a body of agricultural and industrial experts, but rather a body constituted on the lines of the directorate of an influential banking institute.

Several names are suggested in connection with the appointment of the Committee. Among those mentioned are Mr. Justice Wylie, Professor Robert O'Sullivan, T.D.; Mr. David Barry, Senator the Right Hon. A. Jameson and Senator H. S. Guinness.

It is thought that the money set aside by the Government will be spread over a multiplicity of schemes rather than over a small number of large ones. The Advisory Committee is being nominated by Mr. McGilligan, in conjunction with the Minister of Finance.

NORTHERN PARLIAMENT.

IMPORTANT STATEMENT EXPECTED TO-DAY.

When the Northern Parliament reassembles to-day, it is expected that Sir James Craig will make an important statement on the political situation, and that then the House will adjourn.

To-morrow an Unemployment Fund Bill will be given a first reading, and the Industrial Assurance Bill a second reading, while supplementary estimates will also be discussed. The Unemployment Fund Bill is expected to pass through all the remaining stages on Thursday.

PUNJAB FLOODS.

92 VILLAGES DAMAGED.

SIMLA, Monday.

The Financial Commissioner of the Punjab Government, who has been touring the flooded areas of the Punjab, reports that ninety-two villages in the Panipat area have suffered serious damage. There have not been many casualties, but five persons are reported drowned in this district and seven persons are missing. Seventy thousand acres of cultivated land are affected by the floods, necessitating the grant of relief and remissions of land revenue. The relief parties are working admirably. The Jumna is rapidly subsiding.

The Maharaja of Bharatpur, much of whose territory has been devastated by the floods, has prohibited all public functions in connection with his birthday.—(Reuter.)

CORK'S PROBLEMS.

Mr. T. P. Dowdall, Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Cork Progressive Association, held last evening at the offices, Grand Parade. The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, Mr. J. J. Walsh, attended.

A long discussion took place on the situation in Cork, and it was decided to hold a special meeting of the Executive on Thursday next at 2.30, at which Mr. Walsh will make a statement on problems vitally affecting the welfare of the city.

NO MARTIAL LAW IN RUMANIA.

Reuter's Agency is requested by the Rumanian Chargé d'Affaires in London to give an emphatic denial to the report that martial law has been proclaimed in Rumania.

SPANISH ROYAL ROMANCE.

MADRID, Monday.

It is rumouored in Court circles here that a marriage will shortly take place between Prince Jaime de Bourbon, Duke of Madrid, and his niece, Blanca de Leon Bourbon, daughter of General de Bourbon de Castellvi.—(Reuter.)

SOUTH AFRICAN CRICKETER KILLED.

JOHANNESBURG, Monday.

The four victims of the railway accident, which occurred to the up mail train from Durban at Milndale, early yesterday, included Tom Campbell, the well-known South African cricketer.—(Reuter.)

THE COMMONWEALTH BANK.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Mr. R. B. McComas, the managing director of Williams, Haughton and Co., has been appointed a director of the Commonwealth Bank under the reorganisation scheme. The other seven members of the Board were appointed on Friday last.—(Reuter.)

A WAY OF PEACE.

THE APPEAL TO THE CHURCHES.

BISHOP OF CASHEL'S VIEWS.

"DANGER TO OUR COMMON FAITH."

Yesterday we published a letter, entitled "God and the Boundary," which described how a war between Chile and Argentina was averted in 1900 as the result of the peace crusades of two bishops—one in Argentina and one in Chile—who compelled the reconciliation of the two Governments.

In a leading article on the subject we said:—

We are convinced that the Irish people, in North and South, would welcome with profound gratitude a joint appeal from the Churches to the two Irish Governments. We are convinced also that such an appeal would create instantly a public demand for conference and compromise which neither Government could venture—even if it should wish—to ignore. The moment for a mobilisation of all the forces of peace will have arrived when the Boundary Bill becomes British law. Is there a bishop in the Free State who, like that Argentine bishop, will speak the first word; and is there a bishop in Northern Ireland who, like that Chilean bishop, will take up the message?

The statement by Dr. Miller, Bishop of Cashel, which we publish below, will be read with interest by all well-wishers of the country.

APPEAL TO THE TWO GOVERNMENTS.

THE BISHOP OF CASHEL'S STATEMENT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Monday.

In reference to the appeal made by the Irish Times to-day concerning the Boundary question, the Right Rev. Dr. Miller, Bishop of Cashel and Emly, issued the following statement in an interview with your representative. The Bishop says:—

"In all probability the appeal of the Irish Times will be responded to by bishops who exercise more influence than myself, but no one interested in the country's welfare could fail to be influenced by the eloquent and moving sincerity with which it asks for assistance in the critical times through which we are passing.

"Our responsibilities are such that there ought to be, in my opinion, no hesitation in speaking freely and frankly upon the danger to our common faith. Is the Christian Church to stand by in silence whilst forces are let loose which will throw back the progress of Christianity for centuries?

"It has been the proud boast of Irishmen that this is a religious country—religion is the example of Christ. We may well ask: what connection has Christ with hostilities about the Boundary question? Wars may be defended upon the ground that they are undertaken to defend the oppressed and helpless, but here there is no such redeeming feature.

"On the two sides there are diverse views as to the legal construction to be placed upon a form of words. There is a widespread desire for ultimate union between the two portions of this divided country. There is no oppression upon either side, yet feeling is rising higher and higher, and the danger to Christian religion daily increasing.

"What is to be the end? Are we to wait until swords are drawn and the results of war are upon us—desolation, mourning, and woe, in a Christian country?

"The destruction of Christianity and the putting of Christ to open shame in the country called by His name, and the possibility of union gone for ever—such a prospect is simply abhorrent. They that take the sword in such a quarrel will surely perish by it.

"What feelings must the Redeemer of the world have when He looks upon a divided nation, such as we are, and sees that we are making Him Who came to be our peace a cause of dissension, bitterness and hate?

"But we are persuaded of better things. There is a profound desire for peace in the North and in the South, but it must make itself felt.

"Most heartily, therefore, do I support the appeal of the Irish Times to the two Irish Governments to meet and discuss the best method of settling their difficulties. They will, I feel sure, realise that as Christian men they cannot, and must not, permit this endless destruction and misery to come upon innocent people. If they permit it, the country as a whole will ask that they leave the settlement to others. They will, however, be supported by the prayers of every Christian in the North and South, and we need have no fear of its results."

"NO STONE TO BE LEFT UNTURNED."

MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD'S STATEMENT.

A statement on the boundary question by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald is to appear in the Review of Reviews, to be published on October 15th.

Mr. Wickham Steed, who interviewed the Premier, referred to the difficulties of the questions which the Government would have to contend with. The following is the text of the conversation that followed:—

MR. WICKHAM STEED: Of that work it seems to me that the Irish difficulty is the most urgent, if not the most important aspect. There is, I believe, a real danger that if a Cabinet crisis, or a dissolution, is brought on by the action of the Liberal or the Conservative Party now, an inevitable result will be to cause such action to be regarded in the Irish Free State as a British trick to evade fulfilment of the Anglo-Irish Treaty on the boundary question. Suspicion plays already so large a part in Irish affairs that very little is needed to arouse it, and once it is aroused it will be very hard to allay.

MR. MACDONALD: Nobody in Ireland, or elsewhere, can fairly suspect the Labour Government of having sought to evade the fulfilment of the Treaty. As I said the other day in the House of Commons, I wish it had not fallen to my lot to deal with the boundary question, for neither I, nor any of us, are responsible for the trouble that has arisen. But since we have been responsible for upholding the honour of this country, and for vindicating its faithfulness to solemn obligations, we have had no thought of side-stepping or of evading the issue. We have done our duty, and shall do it as long as it is ours to do, and, what is more, we shall leave no stone unturned to promote a settlement for the good of the whole of Ireland and of Great Britain alike. But, as you see, we may not be masters of our fate.

MR. WICKHAM STEED: I had a letter recently from an influential Irishman, well acquainted with all shades of Irish opinion. In it he asked two questions. One was—whether the Prime Minister was really in favour of a settlement by consent that would secure Irish unity. The other was—whether the Conservative Party really desire an Irish settlement, or cared anything at all for Irish unity. I replied that though I had no authority to speak for you, or for any member of the Government, I was convinced that you and the Government, like the great majority of reasonable Britons, would welcome an Irish settlement by consent, that would restore Irish unity, while safeguarding the special rights and susceptibilities of the North, but that as regards the Conservative Party it was impossible to give any definite assurance. That Mr. Stanley Baldwin alone could do.

MR. MACDONALD: I doubt if Mr. Stanley Baldwin could do it. I think I know what he and some Northern Irishmen would wish to do if they could, but I am not sure that they have the power to do as they wish. We, at any rate, shall do all we can, as long as we can, for the sake of not only Ireland, but of this country.

MAURETANIA SETS UP NEW RECORD.

ATLANTIC RECORD BROKEN BY 6 MINUTES.

REMARKABLE FIGURES.

The Cunard liner Mauretania arrived at Plymouth from New York at 3.45 p.m. yesterday afternoon, having beaten the world's record between these two ports established by her on her last voyage three weeks ago.

This makes the third successive voyage on which she has broken Atlantic records. On the first she broke the record between New York and Cherbourg, accomplished the fastest average speed ever made across the Atlantic, and steamed the greatest distance ever made in one day.

On her second she made the record time between New York and Plymouth, this latter being beaten by six minutes with her arrival yesterday. Her time between the Ambrose Channel Light Vessel and the Eddystone Lighthouse was 4 days 21 hours 51 minutes, and her average speed 25.68 knots, in spite of the rough weather.

Passengers who left New York last Wednesday were thus able to be in London last night.

DARING OUTRAGE IN WATERFORD.

POLICE OFFICER'S MOTOR CAR DESTROYED.

Early on Sunday morning a four-seater motor car, owned by Superintendent Hallinan, of the Civic Guards at Waterford, was taken away from his residence at South Parade, and destroyed at a lonely part of the city, called Wilkin street.

Superintendent Hallinan was in anxious attendance upon of one of his children who was ill, and he left the car standing outside his house. When he came out again the vehicle had disappeared.

A search party was organised, and when the car was found it was a total wreck. The engine connections were broken, and stones were found amongst the machinery.

Superintendent Hallinan has, it is understood, decided to lodge a claim for £200.

ACCIDENT TO EXPRESS TRAIN.

RAILWAY STATION DAMAGED.

An official of the London, Midland, and Scottish Railway at Euston stated yesterday that no official statement would be issued regarding the accident on Sunday night to the Glasgow-London express, which shed a "tyre" of one of the main driving wheels of the engine, just outside Weedon, Northamptonshire. An inquiry will be held.

Inquiries at Weedon show that a good deal of damage was done to the station by the accident to the engine wheel of the Scotch express. All the signal wires going south were torn away for two hundred yards, the stone of the coping of the platform was sliced off, two waiting room windows were broken and the woodwork was pierced and splintered.

The damaged engine could not be moved under its own power, and a breakdown gang was summoned from Rugby, which was occupied for four hours in clearing the line. Traffic was diverted at Rugby and Roade, while a single line was worked through Weedon.

According to an official statement, the negotiations between the German Railway Company—the organisation set up under the Dawes scheme—and the Franco-Belgian Railway Regie, have resulted in an agreement being reached whereby the railways in the Rhineland and the Ruhr are to be handed over to the German company on November 16. Satisfaction is expressed in industrial and commercial circles here over this decision, as the date fixed at London was December 7, or three weeks after the date now arranged.

LOST ON THE MOORS.

DEATH FOLLOWS FIVE DAYS' SUFFERING.

After being lost for five days since leaving his home last Tuesday for a walk, Henry Starr, aged forty-two, a Sheffield man, was found on the Derbyshire moors a few miles away from the city on Sunday. He was discovered by a search party, which had on Saturday fruitlessly traversed the Lowden moors in a hut, suffering from a broken ankle, and terribly exhausted from exposure and want of food.

The scene of the discovery was three and a half miles from the nearest habitation. The rescuers placed him on a table, which they found in the hut, and carried him shoulder high over very rough ground, with scarcely any paths but sheep tracks, and at one place a dangerous precipice.

Soon after he was found he lapsed into unconsciousness, without being able to give any account of his wanderings. At the first house hot water bottles were applied to restore circulation, and he was then taken to Sheffield Royal Infirmary, where he died early yesterday morning. He told one of his rescuers that he did not remember leaving home.

THE FREE STATE CABINET.

DISTURBING RUMOURS.

(FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Since the publication, about a fortnight ago, of the report that an early reconstruction of the Free State Cabinet was contemplated, rumours of a more or less disquieting character have not ceased to circulate.

During the past three days informal conferences between prominent members of the Ministerial Party and of Mr. McGrath's group are stated to have been held for the purpose of "clearing the atmosphere," and arriving at a "real appreciation of the respective positions." Whatever significance may attach to those "talks," there is no reason to doubt that the demand for a special convention of the Cumann-na-nGaedheal organisation is becoming gradually more insistent.

Not a few of the country branches have asked for a general meeting of delegates, and at the moment the headquarters of the organisation are, I understand, requesting to be informed of any particularly urgent reasons for the summoning of a special general meeting. Two or three branches have been openly critical of the Government's policy in certain matters within the last few weeks, or, more correctly, it would seem their criticism has been directed by implication at certain members of the Government.

It is undeniable that the disturbing rumours which have gained currency inside the last month are chiefly responsible for the suggestion that a general meeting of the members of the organisation should be called. The opinion is that a full and free discussion of certain controversial issues—within the party ranks—would have a useful and steadying effect on the whole organisation. The probability is, however, that a special Convention will not be summoned before the Dail meets. It is more likely that before the House reassembles a special meeting of the Ministerial party in the Dail will be called, when the question of summoning a Convention of the whole organisation could be considered.

Meanwhile rumours of a disturbing nature persist. The latest to gain currency is that vitally important decisions may be come to at a meeting of the Cabinet which, it is stated, will take place before the end of the week. The suggestion is that the matters for discussion constitute grounds for an acute difference of opinion between members of the Cabinet, and that, as a result of their refusal to agree to certain proposals submitted for their acceptance, two or three members of the Cabinet may find it impossible to share any further responsibility with their colleagues in the government of the country.

A substantial foundation is claimed for this rumour. Others equally well, or ill, founded, as the case may be, are in circulation. By the end of another month, with the re-assembling of the Dail and the holding of five by-elections, the truth of them or otherwise will have been adequately tested.

GERMAN BANKERS AND INDUSTRIALISTS.

BIG RUSH TO AMERICA.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

There has suddenly developed a significant rush of German bankers, leading industrialists, and "movie" magnates to America.

The liners Columbus and Deutschland, leaving Germany for the West this week-end, were virtually filled with notable German financiers and industrialists, going to America on important business. It is said that the German bankers are anxious to be in America when the German loan is floated, so that they can see what opportunities there are for private business. The heads of some of the biggest department stores here are included in the passenger lists which show large numbers of smaller bankers and business men seeking foreign trade connections, as well as German journalists, who are being sent over to cover the United States Presidential elections.

DEATH OF MAJOR-GENERAL HENDERSON.

OLD INTERNATIONAL RUGBY PLAYER.

The Times announces the death of Major-General Sir Robert Samuel Findlay Henderson, a distinguished retired officer of the Army Medical Service, and an old International Rugby football player. General Henderson, who was 65, entered the Army Medical Service in 1884, and saw service in many campaigns. In the South African War he was in command of twenty-five field hospitals. In 1915 he was appointed Director-General of the New Zealand Medical Services, retiring in 1917.

CAPTURED RUM-RUNNER.

LITIGATION ABANDONED.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

After one year's litigation the owners of the schooner Grace and Ruby, which was captured as a rum-runner, have abandoned their efforts to secure her release, on the ground that she was seized beyond the three-mile limit.

Since the vessel was taken the Treaty with Great Britain has been signed, extending the right of search to one hour's sailing distance, and the appeal, which had been taken to the Supreme Court, has been ordered to be discontinued.—(Reuter.)

NEW GREEK CABINET.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE GERMAN LOAN.

VALUE OF THE ISSUE.

The Times in a leading article upon the German Reconstruction Loan, which is expected to be ready for issue next week, observes:—That the Dawes report—with all its defects—and, therefore, the loan is a step forward towards the paths of peace and prosperity is the considered belief of nearly every leading statesman, banker, and economist in this country. No question of sentiment enters into the calculations of those responsible for the flotation of the loan. Of necessity they must subordinate their feelings to the proper execution of the task entrusted to them. Having satisfied themselves that it is a proper course to take, the bankers are doing no more than their duty. No one can forget, nor would it be right to forget, that one million of our people lost their lives by German aggression. The memory of that fact cannot be eradicated from the minds of this generation or the next. As a people, however, we must beware lest these feelings betray our judgment. It is incumbent upon those who guide public opinion that they shall bear in mind how easily this right and natural sentiment of hostility to Germany and to things German may cloud the vision and distort the judgment. A great and dignified people, having made peace with their enemies, will not derive any moral or material satisfaction or remain faithful to their own ideals if they carry their hostility to the point of refraining from giving their help to the work of reconstructing the life of Europe. To do so would involve a neglect of this country's permanent interests.

Some nervous commentators have created the impression that Germany will be able to purchase complete prosperity for £40,000,000. For that notion there is no sanction. The loan has a psychological value greater than its economic possibilities. Germany, within a year of the Dawes plan coming formally into effect—an event which will be promulgated in a few days' time—will have to pay to the Allies £50,000,000, or £10,000,000 more than the amount of the loan. The object of the loan is to create a feeling of confidence in German finance in order to entice back into Germany those foreign balances which fled the country during the period of inflation. It is from the return of these balances that the Allies must look for the greater part of the earlier reparation payments.

BRINGING AN ELECTION NEARER.

The Times Parliamentary Correspondent writes:—The Cabinet took a fateful decision at its meeting yesterday afternoon, as the result of which an immediate General Election appears to be inevitable, unless the Liberals recede entirely from the position they have have taken up concerning the Workers' Weekly prosecution.

The prevailing view in political circles last night seemed to be that the Conservative vote of censure would be defeated by the combined vote of the Labour Party and the bulk of the Liberals, and that the Liberal amendment would then be carried by an overwhelming majority, with the support of the full strength of the Conservatives and practically the whole of the Liberal Party.

THE HASHIMITE MONARCHY.

KING OF THE HEJAZ ONLY.

The Sherif Ali Emir of Medina has been officially proclaimed in Mecca as "Constitutional King of the Hejaz," states The Times.

Much stress is placed in telegrams reaching London from Mecca and Jeddah on the fact that he is King of the Hejaz only, and it is suggested that it is thus made clear that he does not claim to be Caliph also. This may be correct, but the importance of the new title is that it removes the principal cause of strife which existed during the late reign between the Court of Mecca and other Arab rulers. In June, 1917, the Emir Husein, then Grand Sherif of Mecca, proclaimed himself Malik Diyar Al Arabiyya, "King of the Arab Countries," thereby antagonising many of his neighbours, who interpreted the title as involving some claim to over-lordship over hitherto independent or semi-independent States, such as Nejd, the Jebel Shammar—which had not then been overrun by the Wahabis—Asir Sanaa, Koweit or Oman.

The British Government, foreseeing the consequences of this ambitious proclamation, refused to recognise the royal title as being other than that of King of the Hejaz, and the wisdom of its action has been proved by recent events.

NEGRO RIGHTS.

TEST CASE IN AMERICA.

In a message from New York yesterday The Times Correspondent states:—Legal proceedings of unusual interest were begun to-day through the filing of a suit in the Federal Court at New Orleans designed to oust Mr. Walter L. Cohen, a negro, from the office of Controller of Customs, to which he was appointed by President Coolidge. The court was asked for an order restraining Mr. Cohen from holding office on the ground that he is a person of African blood and descent, and, therefore, cannot be a citizen of the United States. The action is an attack on the vitality of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States (July, 1868), which gave negroes the right to vote.

It was alleged by the attorneys who brought the suit that the Fourteenth Amendment was never formally ratified by three-fourths of the States as is required by the Constitution, and that it was not adopted by the required two-thirds vote of Congress. The office of Controller of Customs was created at the direction of the late President Harding expressly as a reward for the politically deserving. Mr. Cohen has been a storm centre in politics ever since his appointment.

THE BOUNDARY COMMISSION.

In a leading article, headed "Remember Ireland," the Daily News says:—Whatever form the political crisis may assume during the next few days it is most earnestly to be hoped that Parliament will not allow itself to forget the specific purpose for which it was called together so early in the Autumn. It is clear that whatever sins the Government have committed, or whatever sins they may intend to commit, neither the Government nor the House of Commons have any right to plunge this country into a General Election, with all the chances of change and turmoil that that involves, until they have fully discharged the task to which they have set their hands, by the establishment of a Boundary Commission under the Irish Treaty. To do less would be not only to invite charges against our national honour, but also—and this is the point to which we would draw urgent attention at the moment—to create a situation of the utmost danger and difficulty in the near future.

THE GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Referring to Mr. Macdonald's reference to the effect of the political crisis on the Irish situation, the Westminster Gazette says:—Unfortunately it is Mr. Macdonald himself who has precipitated matters, very much to our regret. When Mr. Baldwin first asked for a day for a full discussion of the Campbell case he suggested that the discussion should take place not during the present sitting, but "on the resumption of business at the end of October." That would have given the Government time to appoint a third Boundary Commissioner, and to set the Commission to work before any crisis arose. Mr. Macdonald, however, declared that he was not at all content to wait, and was the first to suggest that the debate should take place this week. We entirely agree that it is against the public interest that the country should be plunged into a first-class political crisis at the present moment, and that all parties need to bear that fact in mind. But if a way out is to be found the Government must realise that the public is genuinely disquieted about the Campbell case, that at the best it has made a serious blunder, and that it is its obvious duty to make some concession to the general feeling of the House of Commons.

SIXPENNY TAX.

MR. WALSH SEEKS TO JUSTIFY IT.

BENEFIT TO TRADE.

CASH ON DELIVERY SYSTEM.

Addressing the Cork Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Mr. J. J. Walsh, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, defended the sixpenny tax on imported parcels. He asserted that, far from causing hardship, it would benefit industry, augment business and increase employment.

Irish business firms now had an opportunity of capturing the mail order trade which was done by their English rivals. The cash on delivery system had been provided specially for their benefit. Would they have the enterprise to use it, to circularise their customers and advertise their goods?

DEFICIT OF £650,000.

COST OF TRANSPORTING PARCELS.

Mr. Walsh said that a certain amount of objection had been raised to the tax on imparted parcels, and he wished to state broadly the reasons which made it necessary.

As was probably well known, the loss on the working of his department was now about £650,000 a year. Of all the department's services the telephone was the only one which even nearly paid its way. On the letter, parcel, and telegraph services there was a serious loss, and of that loss the parcel service was, even prior to the recent reduction of rates, responsible for at least £50,000 a year.

One of the main causes of that loss was the abnormal number of parcels received by post from places outside the Saorstat. For every parcel sent to Great Britain and the six counties, they had been sending three. For the delivery, as apart from the railway conveyance of that excess traffic, the Saorstat Administration had received from the British Post Office threepence a parcel. He did not suppose that anybody acquainted with the working of any ordinary commercial undertaking—certainly none of his audience—would contend for a moment that the cost of sorting, despatching, conveyance to and from railway stations, transport—usually for long distances—by mail cars, etc., in rural areas, and the delivery of such parcels at the houses of the addressees, would be covered, or even half covered, by a payment of threepence a parcel.

While it was not possible to say with strict accuracy what was the cost of delivering a post parcel, it was easy to demonstrate that it was very much more than threepence. Business men in Dublin with whom he had recently discussed the question, told him that they estimated the cost of delivering their own parcels in and around the city at not less than sixpence a parcel. He was sure that Cork commercial men would say the same. How, then, could the Post Office be expected economically to deliver British traffic in any part of the country, even the most remote, while receiving for doing so only half what it costs a business firm to deliver its own parcels within its own immediate area.

The railways presented, perhaps, a closer analogy in the matter than did business firms. For conveying a parcel of, say, 5lbs. in weight (which for comparison purposes Mr. Walsh took as the average weight of parcels) for a distance not exceeding 15 miles, the ordinary railway charge was eightpence, and for 16 miles and upwards a shilling. Those parcels were almost invariably handed in by the sender at the despatching station and called for at the station of destination, the company's work being in the main the mere transmission by rail in the ordinary vans of their ordinary trains, without any special packing, the companies, unlike the Post Office, incurring no expense for conveyance to and from their stations, for despatch in sealed bags, or for delivery at long distances from the terminal station.

If, then, the railway company's whole labour in connection with small parcels was negligible compared with that of the Post Office, and who, so far as could be judged, were not making any unusual profits on their undertakings, found it necessary to charge, say eightpence or a shilling for a five-pound parcel, according to distance, how could it possibly be expected that the Post Office, with its more costly staff, could keep on delivering at the absurdly low rate of threepence? When it was considered that about two million more parcels came in than went out yearly, the gravity of the position from the Department's standpoint was apparent.

PRESSURE.

Notwithstanding this unsatisfactory financial position, the Government and the Post Office were being strongly pressed by Mercantile and Industrial Associations and Chambers of Commerce to reduce the Saorstat parcel rates on the ground that they were excessive and adversely affected the development of Irish trade, and particularly that they caused the diversion to cross-Channel business houses, which had the advantage of lower postage rates, of business which should normally flow to Irish firms.

While there was every wish to meet those representations, there seemed to be no possibility of doing so, in view of the fact that the postal service was already a heavy charge on public funds, and that any reductions of rates would add considerably to the burden. The theory that an increase of traffic sufficient to compensate for the loss involved would follow the reduction of rates had been found by experience, both here and in other countries, to be entirely fallacious. The reduction of rates was, nevertheless, receiving careful consideration.

But it was not until the Dail decided to impose, for statistical purposes, a fee of sixpence on traffic coming in by sea and the Northern frontier that a solution of the difficulty presented itself. In the first place, it was clear that if on traffic entering by rail, sea, etc., a tax of sixpence for each individual entry was imposed, and if, at the same time, post parcels continued to be admitted free, the immediate result would be the flooding of the post with articles diverted from the other services. Obviously the position of the Postal Department, serious already, would then be materially worsened, as would, incidentally, the position of the carrying companies, whose traffic would be considerably depleted.

It was fairly evident in the circumstances that to balance matters postal parcels could not be allowed to escape the tax, and although the fee was only imposed with much reluctance hesitation would have been greater had it not been that the change killed, so to speak, three birds at once—it prevented flooding, it about covered the loss on the abnormal incoming traffic, and, having covered, or, at any rate, nearly covered, that loss, it enabled the question of meeting the general desire for a reduction of Saorstat rates to be favourably viewed, and a reduction of nearly one and one-third on the old rates was conceded, the resulting loss to the Post Office being about £30,000 a year.

TRADERS' ADVANTAGE.

In the circumstances, did the tax need any further defence or justification? Only a few days previously he had convened a meeting of the most prominent business men of the City of Dublin and district, and discussed the question with them. They expressed no dissent whatsoever from the tax. On the contrary, several spoke strongly in its favour. Why should they not do so? Was it not altogether to their benefit? One heard of the hardship caused to business houses by the change, but what hardship was there? No doubt, a certain amount of inconvenience was caused, but certainly no hardship.

Any sums involved would be more than compensated for by the increased business which the change would assuredly induce, even if the substantial saving on the postage on their own parcels were left wholly out of consideration. The main point was: Why should the Irish people generally be encouraged to go across the Channel for goods which they could as cheaply and as profitably purchase at home?

"Remember," said Mr. Walsh, "I have no objection whatever to purchases being made outside the State. People are quite entitled to do as they think best in the matter, and the lady or gentleman who prefers to send to London for a dress or a suit which can be as advantageously purchased in Cork is fully at liberty to do so. But that person is not entitled—and this is the point which I desire particularly to impress upon you—to have his or her purchases subsidised by the Saorstat Post Office, which means, of course, by the Saorstat people, because the Post Office, like other departments of the State, is a custodian of public funds.

"I repeat, therefore, that anyone who prefers to send his money outside the State for articles which he can quite well obtain within the State, is perfectly free to do so. We have simply ensured that instead of doing so, as in the past, at the public expense, he will do so in the future at his own."

A GLOOMY PICTURE.

Was there, therefore, Mr. Walsh asked, any reason why Irish business houses should object to the tax? From every point of view it was to their advantage. It would benefit industry, augment business, increase employment, and, in addition, it had the immediate incidental advantage—no mean one—of enabling their own parcel rates to be reduced.

The effect of the imposition of the tax upon incoming traffic would not, of course, be fully felt for some time; but already he had received reports that in Cork a falling off was noticeable owing to the reduction of parcel rates and the imposition of the import fee.

Irish business houses were not only placed on the same level with their cross-Channel rivals in the matter of rates, but were provided in addition with a deterrent to the development of cross-Channel trading. The mail order business with London and other cross-Channel cities had assumed in recent years enormous proportions. Thousands of pounds in cash went out of the country, and Irish houses naturally suffered severely in consequence.

Now, when there was an opportunity of capturing that trade, would the Irish houses have sufficient enterprise, energy, and foresight to succeed in diverting it from its present channels? Would they go and look for the trade, or would they sit down, as heretofore, and wait for it to come to them? Would they circularise their customers and advertise their goods? Would they, in particular, use themselves, and advise their customers to use, the cash on delivery system which had been specially provided for their benefit?

In the United States and in other countries that system had proved an invaluable asset to trade and to the shopping public, and had developed to a huge extent. Why should it not do likewise in Ireland, a country for whose circumstances and requirements it was peculiarly suited?

Mr Walsh mentioned that he was having special leaflets explanatory of the cash on delivery system prepared. He trusted that the advantages of the service would be studied closely by all concerned, both traders and purchasers, and that they would make a practice of using it.

Traders would find that it paid to advertise and to sell on a cash on delivery basis.

FRENCH "PACIFIST" IN POTSDAM.

STINK BOMBS THROWN.

BERLIN, Monday.

The entire police force of Potsdam has been mobilised for this evening, and strict orders have been issued to prevent disturbances, at any cost, when Prof. Basch, the French pacifist, speaks on the subject of Germany, France, and the League of Nations. Intimidation by Nationalist organisations has so far been successful, and all the local halls in Potsdam have suddenly been booked for other meetings, and the proprietor of the Concert House, which has been hired by Professor Basch, has become frightened, and has refused to allow his hall to be used for the pacifist meeting.

M. Basch, however, is determined to speak in the home of the Monarchists and reactionaries, and he will do so, relying on police protection, and his bodyguard of Republicans. The audience will be very strictly controlled, and the police will keep the strets in the neighbourhood clear of rioters, who regard the presence of a Frenchman in the city of Frederick the Great as an unparalleled impertinence and provocation.

Speaking in the Diet to-day, Herr Severing, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, said that the meeting would be protected at all costs, much to the disgust of the Nationalist deputies; that the Nationalist organisations must learn that the police batons were not only for use against Communists, but against all disturbers of peace and order.

Later.

Professor Basch delivered his address in Potsdam this evening, as announced, before an audience of some 500 people. The crowds in the streets in the vicinity were well marshalled by strong bodies of police, fully armed. The hall itself was surrounded by other police officers, and the crowd had to be content with singing popular songs. Stink bombs were thrown in an effort to prevent the Frenchman from speaking, but did not have the desired effect. The meeting dispersed without further incidents.—(Reuter.)

THE WAR IN MOROCCO.

In the Fondak sector a reconnaissance was carried out yesterday, and our forces took thirty-two prisoners. In the sector Al Kazar-Teffer a number of the enemy were yesterday discovered entrenched near Tabaganda. Shots were exchanged, the enemy having four killed and several wounded.—(Reuter.)

GERMANY AND THE LEAGUE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

PARIS, Monday.

The reply of the French Government to the German memorandum, concerning Germany's admission to the League of Nations, was handed this morning to the German ambassador here. The reply is said to be on the same lines as the replies of Brussels and London. It conforms to the declarations made at Geneva by M. Herriot—namely, that the French Government sees no objection to the entry of Germany into the League, or to Germany having a permanent seat on the Council, but it considers that Germany should benefit from no special privileges unless she conforms to the obligations of the pact which binds together the members of the League.

POLITICAL CRISIS IN GERMANY.

REICHSTAG MAY BE DISSOLVED.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Monday.

It seems that the dissolution of the Reichstag and new elections represent the only way out of Germany's political confusion.

Several newspapers call on Dr. Wirth, the former Chancellor, who is at present in London, to return to Germany and lead the campaign of the Democratic forces against the Nationalists.

In the event of new elections, it is possible that the present Chancellor, Dr. Marx, may retire. He is spoken of as the next President.

CHANCELLOR MARX AND THE PRESIDENCY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Monday.

Reports are current in political circles here that Chancellor Marx will resign if his effort to form a so-called People's Government, consisting of a Cabinet of all parties except Communists, fails. Thus far the Social Democrats have shown no willingness to join the Cabinet. Should Chancellor Marx resign, a big movement is under way for his taking the Presidency of the German Republic. President Ebert, it is said, is tired of holding office, and his friends say that he is anxious to return to private life and his previous place in the Social Democratic Party, rather than head a Government in which his party plays no part at present.

President Ebert has tried frequently to resign, but has been forced by popular opinion and the insistence of leaders of all political parties to remain on account of his patriotism, honesty and leadership, which are admittedly above party lines.

Chancellor Marx's friends believe that he is the same kind of man, and would make a good President when President Ebert leaves. Chancellor Marx, moreover, is the leader of the Catholic Party, which stands in the centre of seven fighting parties, and which has held the Chancellorship in the party for a long time. The Catholics would be pleased, as also would the Nationalists, to see Chancellor Marx as President, so that he could name one of their party as Chancellor, which is the most important position in the country, the Chancellor practically controlling foreign and domestic policies.

FLOATING DOCK FOR MALTA.

RESULT OF BIGGER FLEET IN MEDITERRANEAN.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
MALTA, Monday.

A giant floating dock has been allocated to Malta, in consequence of the increased strength of the Mediterranean Fleet.

(BY A NAVAL CORRESPONDENT.)

That the transfer of some of the largest battleships in the Navy from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean Station would necessitate the extension of docking facilities at Malta was obvious from the first. It is, therefore, not surprising to learn that one of the mammoth floating docks now available in Great Britain is to be sent out to Malta.

The structure in question is apparently one of the two large docks surrendered by Germany. On arrival in Great Britain they were found to be in bad repair, and the first of them was reconditioned at Chatham a year or more ago. This dock is now capable of accommodating the mightiest ships of the Navy, and it has the additional advantage of being able to pass through the Suez Canal.

Malta is already provided with five docks, the largest of which, with a length of 790 feet and a breadth of 95 feet, could probably take the Queen Elizabeth ships, which are henceforth to serve in the Mediterranean. But it is too narrow to accommodate the aircraft carrier Eagle, also serving on the same station, or any other major ship fitted with bulges.

The fact that the ex-German floating dock is going to Malta suggests that the Fleet there may eventually be reinforced with battleships equipped with bulge protection.

SOVIET AND THE HEJAZ.

KING HUSEIN'S MISSION.

RIGA, Monday.

The Soviet Government has accorded a great welcome to what it calls an extraordinary mission from King Husein of the Hejaz, headed by the Emir Habib Lutfalla, as Minister Plenipotentiary, with a secretary and a military attaché, Colonel Hakir Bek. A special saloon carriage met the mission at the Soviet frontier, and high officials of the Foreign Commissariat cordially received it at the station in Moscow, and then escorted it to reserved apartments at the Savoy Hotel.

The Emir Habib informed the Press that the object of the mission was to establish regular economic and other relations with the Soviet. In commenting on the Emir's announcement, the Bolshevist Press pointed out that Husein was not only King, but also claimed the Caliphate, or spiritual headship of all the Moslems; that the Hejaz is the spiritual centre of the Moslems, and that King Husein was constantly striving to extend his territory by annexing Palestine and parts of Syria, which Great Britain promised him but did not give to him. Apparently the mission's arrival, which occurred before King Husein's abdication was known, is connected with the Bolshevist policy towards the Moslems.—(Times telegram.)

PARIS, Monday.

As the first meeting of the Institute of Intellectual Co-Operation, created by the League of Nations, is to be held on January 1, the French Government found a building to house the new Institute—a gift to the League. It is the old and magnificent mansion which formerly housed the Imperial Austrian Embassy, and is eminently suitable to the needs of the Institute.

TRADE MONOPOLY.

CHARGES AGAINST AMERICAN COMPANY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Monday.

A considerable "flutter" has been caused in American trade circles by the declaration of the Federal Trade Commission that the powerful Aluminium Company of America, in which Mr. Mellon, Secretary of the United States Treasury, is heavily interested, is a complete monopoly.

The Commission's report describes the company as the only source of supply of the metal for aluminium cooking utensils, and this fact, combined with the high protective tariff, enables it to control the price according to the Commission's report to the United States Senate Committee.

The affairs of the company have been recently figuring in the Presidential campaign. A few days ago the Secretary of State, Mr. Mellon, denied that the company had a monopoly as charged by Mr. John Davis, the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Now, with the issue of the Government report, Mr. Davis's charges appear to be sustained.

The report finds that the Aluminium Company has apparently been engaging in practices violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, but whether a prosecution is to follow is not disclosed.

Fifteen hundred persons employed at Baldwin's Port Talbot Steelworks received twenty-eight days' notice yesterday owing to trade depression.

DUBLIN LICENSING APPLICATIONS.

NO REMOVAL OF RESTRICTIONS.

"It would be a very bad start for me if I did away with the restrictions imposed by Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy (then Recorder of Dublin), which resulted in an enormous improvement in connection with licensed trading," said Mr. Justice Dromgoole, in the Circuit Court, Green street, Dublin, yesterday, when dealing with a licensing application.

Mr. William Carrigan, K.C. (instructed by Mr. T. V. Davy), appeared for the Licensed Grocers' and Vintners' Protection Association, the following officials of which were in attendance—Messrs. Patrick Conway (Chairman), Cornelius Kenne (Vice-Chairman), and Martin O'Byrne (Secretary).

Mr. James Henry (instructed by Mr. McCormick) appeared on behalf of the Temperance Party.

A NEW HOWTH HOTEL.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Mr. P. Smith) applied on behalf of Francis H. Cassidy, licensed vintner and grocer, Howth Summit, for a new licence for an hotel which he had built adjoining his existing premises. Counsel said that the hotel had 13 bedrooms. There was no connection between the old premises and the hotel.

Mr. Cassidy, in the course of his evidence, said that during the summer he had thirty-five people staying at the Summit Inn.

In reply to Mr. Henry, he said that there were six or seven publichouses in the village of Howth. There were three hotels in Howth, but they were a mile from his place.

Mr. O'Flaherty, solicitor, of the State Solicitor's Office, said that on behalf of the Civic Guard he did not oppose the application, so far as it was confined to the hotel, pure and simple.

Sergeant O'Brien, of the Civic Guard, answering Mr. Henry, said that he heard that special arrangements had to be made with the hotels at Howth owing to the large numbers of people there on Sundays.

Mr. B. J. Newcombe was called by Mr. Henry in opposition to the application, and said that he was a parishioner in Howth and a member of the Urban Council. At the last election, he added, he was returned at the head of the poll.

Mr. Justice Dromgoole—You speak with authority, then. (Laughter.)

The witness expressed the opinion that an hotel licence was not necessary in this case.

Mr. Justice Dromgoole said that he was satisfied that there were ample drinking facilities in Howth, and he refused the application.

THE ST. LAWRENCE HOTEL.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor applied on behalf of the proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hotel, Howth, to have removed the restriction whereby liquor could be served in the hotel only with food.

Mr. William Findlater, proprietor of the hotel, said that when bona fide traffic was more prevalent the late Recorder restricted the serving of drink on the premises to the adjoining bar, unless taken with food. Many gentlemen who motor to the hotel after three o'clock, when the luncheons were finished, felt it irksome to have to leave the hotel and walk out to the bar to get a drink. They preferred to have a drink in the hotel. In the Royal Hotel, which he owned years ago, this restriction was not in force. People who wanted to drink in bars could find plenty of them in Howth.

Mr. Justice Dromgoole said that the only change that he could find in the circumstances since the last Sessions was that the jurisdiction had been transferred from Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy to him, and he was not going to start by doing away with the restrictions that Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy had made. They all knew the enormous improvement that had taken place in connection with licensed trading under Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy's jurisdiction in that Court, and it would be a very bad start for him (Mr. Justice Dromgoole) to do away with these restrictions. He refused the present application.

THE ROYAL OAK.

An application made by Mr. Joseph O'Connor on behalf of Peter Geraghty, the "Royal Oak," Finglas Bridge, Dublin, for a seven-day licence, instead of a six-day licence, was refused, Mr. Justice Dromgoole remarking that the only effect of granting it would be that the unfortunate public would have to pay more when claims for compensation would be made at some future date.

THE HOTEL RUSSELL.

Mr. Lynch, K.C. (instructed by Mr. John Moran), applied on behalf of Lady Russell for a hotel licence for the Hotel Russell, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin. Counsel said that the rent of the premises amounted to £325 a year, and the rates and taxes to a similar amount. The premises had been left to Lady Russell by her husband, the late Sir T. W. Russell, and formed her principal source of income. On several occasions this year people coming to Dublin had cancelled their arrangements to stay in the hotel when they found that it was not licensed. An application for a licence had been made to the Recorder, who said that he would be in favour of granting it, provided that the rule which he had established was carried out: of having a corresponding licence extinguished. Since the application was before the Recorder the only large publichouse put up for sale in the city realised £10,000.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C., and Mr. Henry opposed the application, and pressed for compliance with the rule established by the Recorder.

Mr. Justice Dromgoole said that no fault could be found with the premises, but he would like to see the rule that was laid down by the Recorder carried out. He would consider the matter, and adjourn the application to the January Sessions.

Mr. Lynch, K.C., said that in the meantime Lady Russell would avail herself of any opportunity that offered of purchasing a publichouse in order to comply with the rule.

THE ROYAL HIBERNIAN HOTEL.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Gerald Byrne and Co.), on behalf of Mr. Paul G. Besson, applied for a new licence in connection with the Royal Hibernian Hotel extension. Counsel said that, owing to the scarcity of hotels in the city, the management of the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dawson street, found it necessary to purchase the premises 49 Dawson street, formerly occupied by Dr. Evans, chemist. These premises were held under fee-farm grant of the 11th June, 1863, at £96 13s. 8d., and the Royal Hibernian Hotel Company had obtained the assignment of these interests, dated 31st July last. If the company obtained the licence, they proposed to build a grillroom, extend their lounge in the entrance hall of the original hotel, and use the remaining portion of the new premises for bedrooms, providing twenty more bedrooms and a new diningroom capable of accommodating 100 people.

Mr. Besson gave evidence, and plans of the proposed extensions were produced.

Mr. Justice Dromgoole said that he would take a note of his intention to grant the application, but he would adjourn it generally, with liberty to re-enter, the applicant to proceed with the extensions, subject to the approval of his plans by the police. He added that there should be a provision that there should be no public bar.

DANCING LICENCES.

Mr. Justice Dromgoole also disposed of applications for music and dancing licences. He granted all the applications for the renewal of existing licences, and for some new licences.

LEINSTER.

EGLISH BRIDGE, QUEEN'S COUNTY.—A Correspondent calls attention to the dangerous condition of Eglish Bridge, between Errill and Rathdowney, Queen's County. Ten years ago one of the arches collapsed, and the servants of the County Council patched up the space with loose material, which had the effect of partially damming the stream, so that whenever there are heavy rains the water flows over the banks and into the road for a distance of a hundred yards on each side of the bridge. Moreover, the road has subsided in several places, and is rendered dangerous for traffic in the dark.

WEXFORD R.D.C. CO-OPTIONS.—Wexford Rural District Council had under consideration the question of co-opting members to succeed Messrs D. Whelan and P. Doyle. It was proposed that Mr. Robert Lambert should be co-opted, although he was held as a criminal by the Free State Government. After some discussion it was decided to postpone the matter for a month.

LONGFORD MOTOR TAX ALLOCATION.—Longford District Council asked for a return of the motor vehicle taxes, stating that the amounts contributed by Longford should be devoted to the repair of the roads. The County Council has replied that the motor vehicle taxes collected in the Free State are pooled, and that Longford County receives a share much larger than it contributes. The reply was considered satisfactory.

COMMENSURATE AWARDS.—It was stated, at a meeting of the Longford District Council, with reference to a number of awards for damages sustained by labourers' cottages in the Turlough district during an ambush, that the sums awarded barely covered the cost of repairs. In one case there was a balance of 1s. 6d. to the credit of the Council.

AGRARIAN OUTRAGES.—Notice of claims amounting to £889 for the alleged malicious burning of hay and £30 for the destruction of a mowing machine at Derryowna, Tarmonbarry, has been lodged with Longford District Council by thirteen farmers residing on the borders of Roscommon, Longford and Leitrim. It was decided to defend the claims.

Those were crimes which they could not hope to suppress altogether in such a large community.

KILMOREY PARK, NEWRY.—Newry Street and Works Committee yesterday, in a report to the Urban Council, which the Chairman of the Committee declined to sign, refers to the neglected condition of Kilmorey Park, and recommends that the caretaker should be dismissed. NO TENDERS FOR BUILDING HOUSES.—No tenders were received by the Newry Urban Council for the erection of six workingmen's houses in the High street. DUBLIN THEATRES.

VARIETIES AND MELODRAMA.

Of the various items in the Theatre Royal programme last night, that of Muriel George and Ernest Butcher, with Ethel Brigstock at the piano, was most pleasing. They rendered a number of old ballads and duets, which were popular long ago, and which appealed especially to the older members of the audience. The quiet style of Ella Shields as a male impersonator, with her own particular character songs, was much appreciated. Jack Stocks amused with his quaint rendering of songs, describing the woes of the married working man. Fyne and Hurley, burlesque comedians, were very amusing. Syd Moorhouse portrayed the ne'er-do-well and the gay man of the world by turns, and sang well. Adrienne Peel is a good pianist and an accomplished monologuist. Astor and Astoria gave an exhibition of club swinging and dancing.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

Johnson and Rickard were well received in the Tivoli Theatre last night, and were especially popular in "You'll Get Your Money" and other well-known songs. The Impromptu Three—Clara N. Baugh (contralto), Alva Harvey (soubrette), and Lillian Barrie (piano)—contributed a vocal, instrumental, and dancing item. Jimmie Morelle and Doris Benson presented "Snatches from Revue," described as a concoction of song, story, and whirlwind dances, with success; and Hugo Darty and Partner are good comedy acrobats. Irene and Hearn gave an exhibition of comedy cycling, and an athletic performance by Les Maxams was clever. Ernie Ream and his Baby Grand was another good "turn."

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

A revue entitled "Tonics in Fourteen Doses" is performed this week at the Olympia Theatre. It includes some good choruses, duets and solos, comedy and dancing. The two songs, "In Old Madrid," by Dorothea Pinhoe, and "Rubin, where have you been?" by May Edney, with choruses, were very well rendered; while the duets "In an old-fashioned garden" and "Sweethearts," sung by Dorothea Pinhoe and Fred. Buttery, were much enjoyed. Fred. Shuff and Bert Arnold, two clever comedians, who appeared in such rôles as bailiffs, firemen, and Customs officers, were responsible for much of the humour. Leon and Ayls performed eccentric dances, and the "Tonic" Girls gave a cabaret dance. Both "houses" were well filled, and the programme was thoroughly enjoyed.

ABBEY THEATRE.

The work of the Abbey Theatre players seems to be making a wider appeal to Dublin people. Last night Lady Gregory's "The Gaol Gate" and Mr. W. F. Casey's "The Suburban Groove" were performed before a good audience. "The Gaol Gate" is a revival of one of the earliest of the Abbey productions, but Sara Allgood and May Craig, good emotional actresses as they are, cannot make it "live," and make the audience feel it. In "The Gaol Gate" the rhythmic overwhelms the dramatic, and the thoughts expressed on the stage are not reproduced in the imagination of the hearers.

Casey's clever comedy satire was much enjoyed. Its humour was well brought out by the capable cast. Eileen Crowe was especially good, while the contrast between Dick Dalton (M. J. Dolan) and Claude Callan (F. J. McCormick) was effectively drawn. Maureen Delaney played Mrs. O'Connor convincingly.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"The Stepmother" is played at the Queen's Theatre this week. The melodramatic scenes with which this domestic drama abounds were acted with skill, and the character studies capably presented. Comic relief was provided by Peter MacCormack as a policeman, and Molly Douglas. Tom Moran played the leading part, and was well supported by Pearl O'Donnell, M. P. O'Flanagan, May Fitzpatrick, and Barry McDunphy. One of the best personations was that given by Frank Dalton as Luke Trixee, a tramp.

A SEASIDE COMEDY OF ERROR.

What was at first thought to be a tragedy changed into a comedy at Brighton, Sussex. A "dead" man got up and disappeared when an ambulance was on its way to take him to the mortuary.

An elderly man was sitting in the concert hall on the West Pier listening to the band, when he assumed a deathly pallor and suddenly collapsed. He was carried out of the hall and was said to be dead. The police and an ambulance were summoned, but when they arrived the man had vanished.

CATTLE FOR BELGIUM.

There were two slight inaccuracies in our representative's statement concerning the recently established Irish-Belgian Shipping Company. The Syndicate which promoted the company consisted of four well-known citizens of the Free State, and not three—Messrs. M. Cuddy, Senator J. J. Parkinson, J. P. Cuffe and R. J. Duggan. The name of the last-mentioned member of the Syndicate was inadvertently omitted in Monday's paper. The company will export from Dublin store cattle, and not, of course, fat cattle.

RISKS OF THE ROAD.

THE INSURANCE OF MOTORISTS.

Speaking at the meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club yesterday, on "Motoring Matters of Moment," Mr. Fred. M. Summerfield said that he thought it was time that something was done about the present speed limit. Nearly all the legislation relating to the use of motor vehicles was obsolete, as it was framed when the motor car was in its infancy.

At that time the speed limit was fixed at 20 miles an hour, and a vehicle driven at that speed was much more dangerous and less easily controlled than the cars of to-day. He seriously suggested that it was time to abolish the speed limit altogether, and to introduce a new regulation increasing the penalties for dangerous driving, for driving could be dangerous even at 10 miles an hour.

The Dublin magistrates told pedestrians that they need take no care of their own lives, and placed the onus upon motorists of protecting other people from the results of their own carelessness. He suggested that definite street crossings should be recognised, and that casual wanderings about the roadways should be viewed by the authorities as they at present viewed fast motor driving. A pronounced road danger was the straying of cattle and donkeys. Slow traffic should also be compelled to keep to the side of streets and roads.

He suggested that all users of motor vehicles should be compelled to cover themselves by insurance for third-party risks. A reckless driver, or the driver of a car in a bad mechanical condition, was as great a danger on the public highway as a man running amok with a loaded revolver.

TAXES.

The import duty operating in the Irish Free State at present was framed in England as a protective tariff, and the amount was purposely made as high as 33⅓ per cent., with a minimum of 22 per cent. In England that tax had been dropped, but the Free State Government, with no car manufacturing industry to protect (with the exception of the Ford factory at Cork) retained the tax at the original rate. Then there was the tax on spare parts, which also was unjustifiable. He suggested to the Government that if it was desirable from a revenue point of view to tax motorists as a class, 10 per cent., or at the outside 12½ per cent., was the most that could be justified as a revenue tax. At present a car which costs £465 in Newry costs the buyer at Dundalk, a few miles away, £575.

The Government had been repeatedly urged to drop the existing tax of £1 per horse-power, and to substitute for it a tax on petrol, or, alternatively to reduce the rate of the horse power tax. He suggested that tax receipts should be transferable from one car to another of similar, or less, horse-power instead of, as at present, being usable only on the particular cars for which they were issued. Were that done the revenue would suffer no harm, as it was obvious that the tax receipt could be used only on one car at a time.

Another matter that needed attention was the inspection of motor cars that were used for hiring. From eighty to ninety per cent. of the cars now in use were registered as "hackneys," and thus escaped the higher tax.

The President (Sir Thomas Robinson) said that he agreed with most of the propositions set forth by Mr. Summerfield, although he did not agree that the speed limit should be abolished. There ought to be compulsory insurance to cover third party risk, and no one should be allowed to drive without proper qualifications. The danger to pedestrians of the "push bike" was even greater than that arising from the thirty miles an hour motor.

A general discussion followed.

LUDENDORFF'S VICTORY.

COURTS DECIDE THAT HIS DOG NEED NOT BE MUZZLED.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
MUNICH, Monday.

Ludendorff, who is President of the Wire-haired War Dogs' Club, refused to recognise the law of the Bavarian Courts, that all dogs running in the streets shall be muzzled. He has continually broken this law, and the authorities decided to bring the matter to the head by seizing his dog and issuing an intimation that it was to be shot. Ludendorff took the case to the Bavarian Courts. The police authorities replied by technically charging him with breaking the law, but the judge's ruling now is that an exception can be made in the case of the country's war hero, and that his dog can in future run unmuzzled.

Ludendorff is now receiving invitations from many other Bavarian dog clubs to become their president.

VIENNA, Monday.

Details reaching Vienna to-day of the revolt of the workmen of Kieff indicate that rioting is breaking into serious proportions there, and that the situation is not yet entirely under the control of the Central Soviet Government.

In addition to 15,000 workers, practically all the troops of the Kieff garrison have joined the revolting workmen.

They are reported to have hunted out the Soviet Commissars, and killed every one of them. Moscow sent Chinese Mongolian terror troops against the city, but the revolt spread rapidly into the outlying territory, where the workers are still holding out, and traversing the districts in small bands.

Southern Russia, the dispatches state, is now terrorised by these roving bands, the members of which are robbing and pillaging wherever food can be obtained.

The original cause of the riots in Kieff is attributed to the starvation conditions under which the men were forced to live. These approached those of 1920.

GERMAN FLEET.

A DANISH PROTEST.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
COPENHAGEN, Monday.

The Danish Press, in apparently inspired articles, is protesting against the provision in the Versailles Treaty which allows Germany certain quantities of war material for use in the training of troops, and at the annual manœuvres.

The newspapers object to Germany's Fleet daily training in Danish waters. They point out that the fact that during the whole of the present summer the German Fleet has had destroyers and cruisers in Baltic waters for training purposes, is disquieting to neighbours who, at the same time, see Germany lingering on the question of the League of Nations.

It is emphasised that so long as Germany is allowed to train soldiers and sailors in this way, it may mean danger. The presence of the German Fleet in Danish waters is distasteful, as it absolutely reminds us of the old German Fleet.

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, Monday.

WHEAT opened strong, 2½c. to 3c. higher, and kept up for a time under the influence of bullish weekly foreign statistics, firm cables, foreign buying, strength of outside markets, export business and buying by cash houses. A reaction set in later due to commission houses selling and realising, and the market closed barely steady, 1¼c. up to ½c. down. Spot strong.

Prices improved in sympathy with wheat, also on short covering, unfavourable crop reports and bull support, but the market reacted and declined subsequently owing to favourable weather reports, larger interior receipts, bearish visible supply figures, lower cash markets and liquidation, and closed easy at 1¼c. to 1½c. decline.

PROVISIONS opened firm, and rose in the early dealing owing to higher hog prices, investment buying in unison with the advance in grain, and on favourable European advices. A reaction set in, however, on selling by commission houses, heavy hog receipts in the West, unloading by traders and selling on the reaction theory. The market closed irregular, with lard 5 to 17½ points down and ribs unchanged to 12½ points up.

King's Bench Division	1,191	731

It is stated that there are 71 cases in which damages are claimed for defamation of character, and of these 44 are to be heard before special juries. An increase in last year's total of 800 cases in the Divorce Court is expected.

The Divisional Court lists show an increase in appeals. The total is 194, against 184 last Michaelmas. There are 75 cases in the Crown Paper, 92 in the Civil Paper, 10 in the Special Paper, and 17 in the Revenue Paper. The companies winding-up matters for hearing before Mr. Justice Eve and Mr. Justice Romer number 114.

MOTOR CYCLING AT SIXTY MILES AN HOUR.

JOCKEY'S TERRIBLE DEATH.

At Richmond, Yorkshire, yesterday, an inquest was held on James Ledson, the jockey, who was killed on Thursday night whilst motor cycling.

A. Gibson, of Leeds, driver of a motor lorry, stated that he was coming from Darlington to Wakefield, and, missing his road, stopped to inquire the way.

Mr. Yorke, of Darlington, gave evidence that he was travelling towards Darlington, and pulled up in response to the previous witness's call, and gave information as to his direction. He was moving off when he saw the motor cycle coming towards him at a pace which he estimated at 60 miles an hour. He immediately heard a crash, and, going to the lorry, saw Ledson under the back of the vehicle in a pool of blood.

A verdict of death from injuries accidentally received was returned.

SHOOTING ON THE LIFFEY.

A WOUNDED SWAN.

Thomas Gaynor, a boiler-maker, living at 1 Liffey street, Inchicore, was fined £3 by Mr. Collins, K.C., in the Dublin District Court yesterday, for having cruelly ill-treated a swan, the property of the Commissioners of Public Works. The defendant was in a boat near Island Bridge on Sunday, and the case was that he shot the bird, wounding it so severely that it had to be destroyed. The defence was that Gaynor fired at a water-hen, which he killed, and that the swan, which was a yard away, got two grains of shot. He regretted very much what had occurred, and offered to compensate the Commissioners for the loss.

Mr. A. Pearson, a Board of Works official, said that the bird was a cygnet, and was valued for about £1.

£2,000 IN NOTES

STOLEN IN POST BETWEEN BELFAST AND DUBLIN.

The Post Office investigating departments in Dublin and Belfast are endeavouring to trace a registered packet, stated to contain £2,000 in bank notes.

It seems that a number of registered parcels containing bank notes were despatched on Friday evening last from the Belfast headquarters of the Northern Banking Company to different branches in the Free State. The next morning it was discovered by the Dublin postal authorities that one of the packets was missing. The numbers of the missing notes are, of course, known.

In conversation with an Irish Times representative yesterday, an old official of the Post Office in the Free State stated that he was not surprised to hear that a bank registered packet had disappeared. All the banks, he said, sent money in very large sums through the post in a way that was nothing less than tempting. Big letters bulging with notes are posted every week by the hundred, and every person through whose hands they pass knows perfectly well that the contents are valuable. The fastening seals frequently get smashed in the mail bags, and it was not unknown for the covering envelope to get torn. Not so long ago he came across in the course of his duty a burst envelope from an Irish bank branch containing a large sum in ordinary Treasury notes.

The official told a story of a clever theft which, he said, was committed in Dublin within the present year. A parcel of jewellery worth several hundred pounds came by registered post addressed to a city trader, and was in the usual way passed on to the Customs clearing office. In the course of the day the officials there received a telephone message, apparently from the consignee, who asked how much he had to pay on the parcel and when he could get it cleared. Both questions were answered, and later on a man came to the office, paid the Customs charges, signed the receipt and got the parcel. It is hardly necessary to add that the jewellery did not reach the person to whom it was despatched.

KERRY AND THE POLITICAL PRISONERS.

The Newry Urban District Council at its meeting yesterday discussed the arrest of Robert Kelly, an ex-Free State Republican internee, who was taken into custody on Sunday, the 28th of September, after addressing a meeting in Newry in favour of the release of all political prisoners in England and Ireland. Mr. W. F. Cunningham moved a vote of censure on the Northern Government.

The Chairman said that Mr. Kelly had done a very foolish thing in going to the meeting. He had no sympathy with him at all, as he should have stayed away from the meeting. At the same time he hoped that the Government would see its way to remove all traces of bitterness by releasing the political prisoners.

POTEEN "PLANTING."

UNUSUAL CHARGE AT SLIGO.

At the Sligo Circuit Court yesterday, Daniel O'Connell, Skreen, was charged with "planting" poteen in the garden of a neighbour's house, thereby endeavouring to secure a miscarriage of justice before a tribunal.

The evidence for the State was to the effect that the accused "planted" the poteen and then informed the Civic Guards by an anonymous letter signed "Small Distillery," where they might find it.

The Judge held that the evidence secured from the accused, and which was being used against him by the State, was obtained under duress, and he ordered his acquittal.

STRUGGLE WITH AN ARMED MAN.

PLUCKY SHOP ASSISTANT.

John Maguire, 35 Ormond Market, was charged before Mr. E. A. Collins, K.C., in the Southern District Court yesterday, with having unlawfully forced an entry to the licensed premises of Ryan Bros., 4 and 5 Charlotte street, on Saturday night.

Patrick McEnroe, a shop assistant, stated that at 9.35 on Saturday night he was inside the door letting customers out, when the accused asked to be let in. The witness told him that it was after hours. Accused then forced the door, and, producing an automatic pistol, said: "Let me in or I'll blow your —— brains out." The witness said that he jumped on Maguire, and after a struggle caught his hand and turned the revolver aside. Then he knocked him down and took the weapon from him.

Inspector Dunleavy, who arrested Maguire, said that when cautioned he stated that he had been at a dance and went to Ryan's at 9.30 for a drink. A row occurred and he remembered nothing more.

He was remanded in custody for a week.

Mr. J. W. Davis prosecuted, and Mr. Gerald Byrne defended.

WOMEN IN PUBLIC LIFE.

Addressing the inaugural girls' meeting at Brighton last night, in connection with the conference of the National Council of Women, Viscountess Astor said that the world was described as appalling, but it was better than formerly, and it was getting better every day. She had unbounded faith in her sex, and believed that the coming of women into public life was the greatest spiritual step that had happened for generations. Miss Ishbel Macdonald said that she believed that women played the greatest part in the formation of character.

ILLEGAL POSSESSION CHARGE.

Mary Merriman, or Mary Burke, of Meaney place, Dalkey, who was charged at the Dublin District Court yesterday with illegal possession of three evening frocks, a quantity of ladies' garments, and a camera, which are believed to have been stolen, was remanded for a week, so that inquiries might be made.

A SMALL HOSPITAL SHIP

TO HELP LABRADOR FISHERMEN.

A crew of four will sail a one hundred feet hospital ship across the Atlantic from Yarmouth to Labrador next summer, and though they take their lives in their hands they will not be paid a penny for their services. The ship, Strathcona II. is to be used in connection with Dr. Wilfred Grenfell's missionary work among the fisher folk along the Labrador coast, and will replace the Strathcona that was wrecked off Labrador eighteen months ago. "The boat is only sixteen feet in width, and a hundred feet on the water line," said Dr. Grenfell to a Press representative. "She is a private yacht. I found her at Southampton recently, purchased her, and sent her to Yarmouth to be fitted out as a hospital ship. Already I have a captain and two engineers, and now I only require a cook.

"Two of the men were in command of torpedo destroyers during the war. They will be away from England six months. The voyage will be via the Azores—a distance of 1,400 miles—on account of the ship's lack of space for carrying fuel.

"Don't ask me how long the voyage will take," he said. "I shall be satisfied if they get there." Dr. Grenfell added:—"The world is as chivalrous to-day as it was in the days of the Crusaders."—(Reuter.)

JAPANESE FOREIGN POLICY

PATRIOTIC SOCIETY'S ACTION.

TOKYO, Monday.

This afternoon three members of the so-called Patriotic Society drove up in a motor car to the Foreign Office, and demanded an interview with the Minister. On being informed that he was absent they forced their way into his room, where they were roughly handled by the secretaries and other officials. All the time the intruders were declaring that Japan is shamed by the weak-kneed policy of the Government in regard to China. They were ultimately arrested, with great difficulty, by the police.—(Reuter.)

Speaking in the Commonwealth House of Representatives, Mr. E. In view of the prolonged absence of the Adelaide, Mr. Bowden said that it was not proposed to send another cruiser to England, but His Majesty's ship Brisbane would join the British China Squadron for five or six months.—(Reuter.)

The Good MAXWELL

"New Life and Energy"

Mrs. Thomas writes:—

"I HAVE taken your valuable Phosferine for the last six weeks, and never felt so well in my life as I do now. My nerves were very bad, and my eyes twitched dreadfully; now they are strong again. I am now in the best of health and spirits, and feel quite fit and have such an interest in life. Phosferine is my salvation, and I shall always look upon it as a stand-by through life. All my friends say what a difference it has made to me, so the result is not only realised by me, but noticed by others as well. My work is a pleasure now. I never feel tired although I lead a busy life. If only people could realise the value of Phosferine, they would get rid of their pain, it puts new life and energy into one. I am over 40 years, but feel younger since I took your valuable medicine, which is the only tonic that has ever done me any good."

(39 Frederick Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham. 24th July, 1924.)

Phosferine exercises real and lasting benefit upon everybody's system, it invigorates brain and body naturally, and is given with equally good results to the children as to adults. The advantage of taking Phosferine is immediate—it makes you well and keeps you well.

RHINE VILLAGE SEARCHED.

SEQUEL TO ASSAULT ON BRITISH OFFICER.

COLOGNE, Monday.

A sequel to an incident which occurred last week, when a British officer and his wife were molested when driving through the village of Moedrath, a seat of Communist activity near here, occurred yesterday when the entire village was rounded up in an endeavour to secure the perpetrators. Children threw stones at the car, and when the officer stopped to reprove them, he was voilently assaulted by a number of persons.

At two o'clock yesterday morning troops were conveyed in thirty lorries and noiselessly surrounded the village, which was then searched just before daybreak. Two known participants in the outrage were not arrested, but several arrests were made for illegal possession of arms and lack of identity papers.

A dramatic touch was given to the proceedings by an order issued to the sergeants' mess, where a dance was in progress, for breakfast to be served at 1.45 a.m., and a parade to take place in full marching order thirty minutes afterwards.—(Reuter.)

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

A DISAPPOINTING TRIAL.

CHAPEAU WINS THE NOTTINGHAM H'CAP.

SLOVAKIA'S FOURTH SUCCESSIVE VICTORY.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

NOTTINGHAM, Monday Night.

The result of the Nottingham Handicap decided here this afternoon was, doubtless, very pleasurable and profitable to the ex-jockey, H. O. Madden, who owns and trains the winner, Chapeau, but to the general public who regarded the race as a splendid public trial for a number of Cesarewitch horses, it was something of a fiasco. Neither Chapeau nor Broken Faith, whom she beat by three lengths, is engaged in the handicap at Newmarket next week, and of the Cesarewitch horses that ran—Eastern Monarch, Ceylonese, Charley's Mount, Brisl, and Labadens—the one who did best was the last-named. His best, however, did not carry him further than third place, a length and a half behind the second.

Brisl and Ceylonese rather disgraced themselves, for they were the two last except Tharros, who could never get going at all, and was tailed off all the way. Eastern Monarch, however, improved on his display in the Newmarket October Handicap last week, for he ran on to get fourth just behind Labadens.

VERY HEAVY GOING.

It must be said that the going was all in favour of Chapeau, who had only 6st. to carry. It was terribly heavy, for an immense amount of rain has fallen in this part of the country, and it was, as a matter of fact, raining heavily during the race. The horses, too, had a long wait at the post. The running was made by Knight of the Leopard, a bad horse in John Watson's stable, and he stayed in front until they had turned into the straight, where he had been followed by Brisl, Broken Faith, and Chapeau.

About three furlongs from home Chapeau took command, and ran home an easy winner from Broken Faith, without ever being seriously challenged. Labadens was putting in some good work at the finish, and he shaped like a thorough stayer. He will, however, have to improve on this performance if he is to win the Cesarewitch, for Chapeau is a moderate animal, who could not win next week with a bag of feathers on her back. Charley's Mount, which started co-favourite with Brisl, was in the middle of the field all the way, and neither dropped back nor improved.

Brisl dropped right out in the straight and finished in the rear, while Ceylonese was last all the way except Tharros—a shockingly poor display for a horse who was favourite for the Cesarewitch all the autumn. I have a shrewd idea that we did not see the winner of the Cesarewitch in the field this afternoon, unless it was Eastern Monarch.

SPRINGSHOOT'S GOOD RUNNING.

Those who saw the good display put up at Newbury by Springshoot behind those smart colts, Zionist and Oojah, had to have a high regard for her chance in the Bestwood Nursery, although the daughter of Cantilever is not much to look at. She came late in the market, having opened at 6 to 1, but she was a firm favourite at the close from the penalised St. Gironette. Well though the latter ran, she found the weight just too much, and Springshoot beat her easily by a length and a half. The Irish colt, Ballyboley, for some time looked very like winning, but he was beaten off into third place, another length and a half behind the second. The future of this colt during the rest of the season can be watched with interest. He ran an excellent race to-day in good company.

The rest of the racing did not contain a great deal that was interesting. Flaith Mor, who has come on a good deal since he left Whitaker's stable for that of Sandy Braime, won the Southwell Three-Year-Old Handicap very easily by three lengths from Gairloch, with Grand Flier third. This winner was joint favourite with McKenna's Blaris, who was never in it with a clear chance.

SLOVAKIA AGAIN SUCCESSFUL.

Slovakia, a weedy little filly whom Gilbert Bennett bought a few months ago for a mere song, gained her fourth successive victory when she took the Trent Nursery Handicap. The winner of the other selling race was the five-year-old mare, Glantrague, who, when in Mr. R. H. Walker's stable, won races at Baldoyle and at Leopardstown in the spring. This was her first appearance on this side since coming to Jack Leader's stable. Jack Leach rode her with some confidence, for he jumped off in front and was soon several lengths clear. She was stopping in the last furlong, but she held on long enough to shake off the challenge of Battery Smoke and beat him by a head.

To-morrow's racing here will be of only medium class. Dumas, who has been a long time on the shelf since he was cut, will reappear in the Trial Plate. I do not care much for his chance, and the race I think rests between BOX HILL and Irish Eagle, with a preference for the former. The Sherwood Nursery will be one of the most interesting events of the day, with Congo, I Hope So, Palma filly, and Satan Bey taking part. I select the easy Manchester winner, CONGO. TRUE GRIT runs for the Colwick Park Selling Plate and should win, while MORALS OF MARCUS should take the Elvaston Plate.

MR. GALSTAUN'S BIG DEAL IN BLOODSTOCK.

DRAFT OF NINETEEN HORSES FOR INDIA.

The well-known and successful Indian sportsman, Mr. J. C. Galstaun, has completed an important deal by the purchase out of Mr. J. J. Parkinson's stable at Maddenstown Lodge, Curragh, of twenty-one lots of horses. This is probably the biggest transaction by a purchaser in one hand that has taken place in the country in recent years. Of the twenty-one lots nineteen are intended for immediate exportation to India, and two of the lots, Flying Spray and Dinette's Daughter, remain at Maddenstown Lodge to carry Mr. Galstaun's colours in this country. Besides these two, that owner has other horses in training with Mr. Parkinson. Particulars of the horses bought by Mr. Galstaun are as under:—

Jabbstraw, b. m., 5 yrs., by The Jabberwock—Lily Lightfoot.
White Ornament, b. g., 4 yrs., by Orpiment—White Pawn.
Flying Queen, ch. f., 3 yrs., by Flying Orb—Princess Ena.
Flying Spray, b. g., 4 yrs., by Flying Orb—Airia.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Leonardo was struck out of the Cesarewitch, and Hurstwood struck out of the Duke of York Stakes, both at 9 a.m. yesterday.

Voltoi will be ridden in the English Cesarewitch by James Doyle. It is intended also that she shall take her chance in the Irish Cesarewitch, at the Curragh on the 22nd inst., but it has not yet been decided who will have the mount on her in that race.

SCATWELL FOR BELGIUM.

Mr. J. J. Parkinson has purchased the well-bred 9-year-old sire, Scatwell by Marcovil out of Cheshire Cat, and is making arrangements to locate him at a stud-farm near Brussels. Mr. Parkinson's purchase of Scatwell is a speculation on his own behalf, and he has gone into the speculation because of the fact that the Irish-Belgian Shipping Company, in which he is interested, has purchased—or is about to purchase—near Brussels a farm on which they will place the cattle they import into that country from Ireland, until the financial condition of the Belgian markets from time to time justifies the offering of the cattle for sale. In due course a number of Irish-bred mares will be bought and sent over to the Belgian stud farm. Many of the most valuable Belgian races are confined to Belgian-bred horses, hence the necessity of importing breeding stock into that country in order that their produce may come within the scope of the definition "Belgian-bred."

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

Quite a good programme is provided for the second stage of the Nottingham Meeting, with the Trial Handicap as the chief attraction. Dumas has been given the steadier of 9st., and, as it is his first appearance on a racecourse this year, something should be found to beat him. Box Hill, who will be ridden by Carslake, is well fancied, but he ran badly at Windsor when apparently well fancied, and, as he has had a busy season, may have had enough of it for a while. Irish Eagle has run consistently well of late, and has in consequence been allotted his fair share of weight, apart from the fact that he does not, in my opinion, really get a mile. Perpendicular put up a good performance at headquarters when beating Bachelor's Fort and Pasha, but she was in receipt of a good deal of weight, and for the winner I shall rely on Golden Feast, who strikes me as being well handicapped and is running over her best distance. Rodeo must have a great chance for the Sherwood Forest Nursery, but, even with her penalty, he has to concede a stone to the Palma filly, who won with a lot in hand at Birmingham. Selections:—

Colwick Plate—True Grit.
Welbeck Plate—Vaudricourt.
Trial Plate—Golden Feast.
Sherwood Forest Nursery—Palma filly.
Elvaston Plate—Chimpanzee.
Bentinck Plate—King Emperor.

LONDON BETTING—YESTERDAY.

Last night's call-over found Jazz Band a clear Cesarewitch favourite at tens, but the money was for Miwani, who was backed to win over £8,000, and touched 100 to 7. Bellman, too, had friends at that rate. Of Hogg's three, Scullion went somewhat better than Bolet Satan at 25's, and Brisl at 100 to 3. Norseman, Keror, and Carbonaro went satisfactorily.

For the Cambridgeshire, Mignault closed favourite, with Pasha also backed. Details:—

GOLF.

RECORD SCORING AT DOLLYMOUNT.

D. MAHONY'S FINE GOLF.

A strong south-westerly wind, with occasional heavy showers, provided a severe test for the members of the Southern Branch of the I.P.G.A. who competed for Sir Stanley Cochrane's prizes at Dollymount yesterday forenoon. In the evening the rain kept off, but the wind if anything freshened and good golf on the homeward journey was by no means easy of accomplishment. As a matter of fact against the wind full iron shots to the short fourth fell short, and wood was required to get home at the short twelfth. High scoring was, in the circumstances, not to be wondered at, but several of the competitors did exceedingly well.

In the morning P. O'Connor, of Baltray, headed the list with 75, which, with the elements in such a mood, represented fine golf, indeed; while Fred Smyth, who had perhaps the worst of the weather to contend against coming home, had a really good 77, which included 6 at the 13th, on the way to which he was unlucky to find two lies in divot marks.

But the best golf of the day was played by Dan Mahony in the afternoon. The Skerries professional quite excelled himself with his wooden clubs, his driving and brassey shots into the wind coming home being powerful, while his work on the greens was the acme of accuracy; in fact on five greens he required only one putt. He reached the turn in 34, and, making no mistakes on the way in, he finished in 73, which ranks as a professional record for the new course, which yesterday, as stated, furnished a rather severe test of golf.

Mahony's record card read:—

Out—4 4 4 3 4 2 4 5 4=34
In —5 5 3 4 5 4 3 5 5=39
73

In the morning he had a 79, and his aggregate of 154 left him an easy winner of the first prize.

O'Connor had not the best of luck on the second round. In the forenoon he, as remarked, went round in 75 (out—5 4 4 3 5 4 4 4 3; in—4 5 3 5 4 4 4 5 5), but he required ten strokes more for the second eighteen. Fred Smyth also failed to maintain his steadiness of the morning, for following a 77 he took 84. His low tee shot to the Alps did not get over, and after an ineffectual attempt to recover he had to play back, and his brassey shot being trapped at the green the hole cost him 8. Then to the 10th he found the drain with his second, and a 7 went down against him, and these mistakes put him out of the running.

John O'Neill likewise fell behind on the second round. J. Murray J. Gaffney and T. Gaffney, however, played sound golf for their respective scores in the evening, Tom Gaffney's 76 bringing his aggregate to 161, which entitled him to third prize, second money going to T. Monahan for his 160, the result of two steady 80's. At the turn in the afternoon the latter was going strong, being out in level 4's, but he was somewhat careless coming back, and took 44. The full aggregates were:—

ENGLISH LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP.

MISS WETHERED AND MISS LEITCH IN THIRD ROUND.

BEXHILL, Monday.

If a line were to be taken through to-day's performances on the Cooden Beach course, when the first and second rounds of the English Ladies' Championship were played, then there is quite a possibility of Miss Wethered, the holder, taking the title of English Lady Champion for the fifth year in succession. Moreover, there is again the possibility of Miss Wethered's opposing the former champion, Miss Cecil Leitch, especially as the latter will not be called upon to play in the third round to-morrow owing to the absence of an opponent in that stage. Miss Wethered to-day gave a most remarkable exhibition against Mrs. Myers, who was runner-up in this year's Lancashire Championship. In face of a wind on the outward journey the champion played almost without fault, and an indication of her form may be gleaned from the statement that she took the first six holes in the match in a total of two strokes under bogey. Then came Mrs. Myers' single half, but she became 7 down at the eighth, and the holder turned for home with a lead of 8. She had done the first nine holes in 38, and with Miss Wethered taking the tenth the match was over by a margin of 9 and 8.

Miss Cecil Leitch had the misfortune to have to go round against Miss Leon (Oxhey) in the worst of the day's weather. The former British and English champion won the first hole in 6, but a perfect chip shot at the third enabled Miss Leon to square the match. Thereupon Miss Leitch showed some strikingly good golf, the result being that she was no fewer than 4 up at the eighth. Following that came another phase, as Miss Leon, with long putts, took three consecutive holes, and thus stood only 1 down. Then it was Miss Leitch's turn to take three holes, and in the end she won by 3 and 1. Almost equal to Miss Wethered's big win was that of Miss Joan Stocker, runner-up two years ago. Miss Stocker was opposed to Mrs. F. W. Brice (Neville), and brought the game to a conclusion as early as the 11th green.

Some surprise was caused by the defeat of Mrs. Douglas Fish—until recently Miss Joscelyn Rogers—the well-known Somerset player, on the 21st green by Mrs. Raymond Cooper, a Cheshire golfer; while another of a lesser nature was the late finish of the match between Miss Doris Chambers, British Champion two years ago, and Mrs. Barnard, a Norwich golfer. In this case it was not until the 19th hole had been played that Miss Chambers was able to oust her opponent. Miss Winifred Sarson won by 3 and 2 from Mrs. Percy Garon, who, as Miss Parkinson, lost to her in the final of the Girls' Championship three years ago.

Soon after mid-day a rainstorm burst over the course, and it was so violent and so continuous that during the afternoon there was much risk of the course being flooded. Indeed, never in the history of the championship have such weather conditions prevailed. As matters stand it is practically certain that to-morrow's matches will be played on a very heavy course. Details:—

THE £750 TOURNAMENT.

The most important match play tournament in professional golf opens to-day on the St. George's Hill course at Weybridge. As a result of the territorial qualifying rounds practically every golfer of note had won his way to what is regarded as the match play championship. Most of the competitors were practising yesterday, and the best performance was undoubtedly that of James Braid, who, playing with Sir Emsley Carr, went round in 71. Arthur Havers had a very fine nine holes score for the homeward half of 34. Most of the other players were content to play a few holes here and there.

VESINGTON STAR'S RETURN TO THE CURRAGH.

Vesington Star, who was the champion two-year-old in this country in 1923, has arrived from France at Philip Behan's establishment, Mountjoy Lodge, Curragh, where he was located during his first season. It will be recalled that at the end of last year Signor Ranucci, the Italian owner, who races extensively in France, purchased the son of Flying Orb and Saxham Lass from his breeder, Mr. C. T. Wallace, for £10,000. The colt was taken to France and trained at Chantilly, by H. Count. Vesington Star did not run until the end of last month, when, in the Prix de la [illegible] of 10,000 francs at Maison Laffite, he ran Necas, the champion four-year-old sprinter in France, to three-quarters of a length at a difference of only 2lb. for a year. Signor Ranucci has a decided preference for stayers, and nearly all the most valuable races in France are over a distance of ground, consequently Vesington Star's owner came to the conclusion that there is a wider field open to his colt in the sprinting line in England and Ireland than in France; hence his return to Philip Behan's care at the Curragh. By the by, it is very likely Signor Ranucci will next year have two or three horses in training at Mountjoy Lodge, in addition to Vesington Star.

SHEEP DOG TRIALS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Sheep dog trials are of the greatest utility to the farming community and of interest to the general public. I will not occupy your valuable space by giving lengthy details of the trials. The time has come when, by establishing an All-Ireland Sheep Dog Trials Society, we could emulate and consolidate the commendable undertaking to run sheep dog trials by the Clonmel and District Kennel Club on Wednesday, the 8th October. This date would be most suitable to inaugurate the Society, as the presence of Mr. Reid, Honorary Secretary of the International Sheep Dog Trials Society, would ensure that the proposal could be moulded on sound lines by his giving us the benefit of his vast experience as regards management of all matters pertaining thereto.

I am sure that great numbers will attend at the picturesquely situated Powerstown Park Racecourse to witness these trials, and it would be most opportune to have a meeting to carry out this suggestion, which, I am sure, will have the support of all sheep dog owners and farmers.—Yours, etc.,

FRANCIS DRONAN, Mayor of Clonmel.

TICKETS FOR INTERNATIONAL MATCHES AT TWICKENHAM.

The following letter has been addressed to the secretaries of all clubs belonging to the Rugby Football Union:—

Twickenham, Middlesex,
Oct. 1, 1924.

DEAR SIR,—International matches at Twickenham. For the season 1924-25 it has been resolved that tickets for the above shall, in the first place, be issued direct from the R.F.U. offices on the application from the secretaries (on behalf of their members) of county, Services, and University unions, and of clubs in membership with the R.F.U. Applications for all matches must be made by letter to the secretary of the R.F.U. at the above address not earlier than November 1, and not later than November 14, 1924.

The dates of the matches are as follow:—Saturday, January 3, 1925, England v. New Zealanders; Saturday, January 17, 1925, England v. Wales; Saturday, February 14, 1925, England v. Ireland.

A remittance in full must accompany every application for tickets required, the prices of which are as follow, including tax:—(a) Covered seats in the west, east, and north stands, 10s. each; (b) ring seats along the touch lines, 7s. 6d. each; (c) ring seats from goal line to dead ball line and along the dead ball line, 6s. each; (d) ring seats for bona-fide playing members only, 5s. each. All the above include admission to the ground.

With regard to "d," the R.F.U. desire to point out that this is a special concession to actual players only, and any club found allocating these tickets to others will be debarred from this privilege in future.

With regard to "a," "b," and "c," these tickets are for members of the unions and clubs applying for same, and no deviation must be made in this respect, and the R.F.U. look to secretaries to see this faithfully carried out in order that club members may have prior consideration.

The R.F.U. wish to point out that, whilst they are desirous of meeting clubs' wishes as far as practicable, they cannot guarantee that the number of tickets applied for, or the particular class of ticket, can be allotted, and the balance of the remittance forwarded with application will be returned if allotment in full cannot be made. Allotment will be made as soon after November 14 as possible, and any tickets then available will be offered to the general public through the usual channels. No allotment will be made to clubs who have not paid their subscription. Tickets for the International Trial Match, England v. The Rest, at Twickenham, on Saturday, December 20, 1924, will only be obtainable through the R.F.U. offices, and application should be made for same on or after November 1, 1924. Prices for covered seats 5s.

The R.F.U. are desirous that you should make the contents of this letter well known in your district, so that every one may thoroughly understand the procedure with regard to the international tickets.—Yours, faithfully,

C. J. B. MARRIOTT, Acting Secretary.

MALAHIDE v. RAILWAY UNION II.

BOXING.

THE RING, BLACKFRIARS.

An interesting fifteen rounds contest was staged at The Ring, Blackfriars, London, last night between Bugler Harry Lake and Van Dyk, both of whom, having reached the top of the Bantam Class, are now, owing to increasing weight, seeking honours amongst the Feather-Weights. Lake won both English and European titles at 8st. 6lb., but lost them to Johnny Brown, the Scotsman. He launched his new career as a feather-weight promisingly last night, boxing cleverly to beat the Dutchman on points.

NATIONAL SPORTING CLUB.

The re-opening of the National Sporting Club, London, last evening marks the start of the boxing season in earnest. The programme was not an ambitious one; but a competition was launched which is to provide a new holder of the Lonsdale Light-Weight Championship Belt. Two bouts of ten rounds were staged in the competition last night, the principals being Jack Kirk, of Doncaster, who met Arthur Tyrrell, of Birmingham, and Bill Handley, of Hackney, whose rival was Harry Robinson, of Mexborough. Earlier, in a splendid ten-round contest, Kid Socks, Bethnal Green, won by a narrow margin on points from Lees Mack, who, as L. M. Tarrant, won the Amateur Championship at fly-weight and bantam-weight limits. In the Belt eliminating contests Kirk beat Tyrrell on points, and Robinson defeated Handley on points. Two hard contests, but Kirk was a decisive winner.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES.

IRISH STOCK EXCHANGES.

DUBLIN.

NATIONAL LOAN, GUINNESS AND SPINNERS STRONG AND HIGHER. FUNDING LOAN GAVE WAY. JOHNSTON BAKERY ORD. AND DUNLOP RUBBERS WEAKER.

The most pleasing points of interest on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday were the further advances in Government National 5 p.c. Sterling Loan, Guinness Ordinary, "Wicklow" Pref. and Fine Cotton Spinners. Compensation 5 p.c. Loan was also wanted, but was held for an advance. British Funds were much more active, with one or two dull or weak spots. The Bank market was quiet, with prices scarcely altered. The feature in Breweries was the rush at the opening of the market for Guinness Ord. Shares, but the initial sharp advance was subsequently partly lost. Later the price was bid up nearly to the initial figure. Dublin Distillers Ord., for a broken lot, were decidedly weaker after last week's strength. Attention was given to Home Railways, with prices disposed to be irregular. Dublin and South-Eastern Pref. advanced smartly, but Midland Great Western Ord., being without support except at a concession, gave way. Alliance Gas Shares remain very firm. An odd lot of Johnston Bakery Ord. Shares was sold at 50s., or half-price, which was a smart drop on last marking. Some selling orders in the Drapery market were withdrawn. Textiles were better in some cases, with special strength in Spinners and a firmer market for Calico Printers. Leading Tobaccos closed firm, but Imperial of Canada Shares were dull.

Government National Sterling Loan rose ⅜ further to 92⅜.

Among British Funds, Consols fell 1/16 to 57⅛, and Funding 4 p.c. Loan ⅞ to 88½, while War Loan 5 p.c. repeated 102½, Conversion 3½ p.c. 77¾, and Irish Land 2¾ p.c. 58⅜.

The only change in Banks was a rise of 1/16 to 6⅞ in Munster and Leinsters, while Bank Stock repeated 266½, Nationals 20¼ and Royals 13½.

The feature of Breweries was the strong buying of Guinness Ord. The price opened no less than 1/16 higher at 47½, but the next marking was back to 47¼ buyers. At the later market the quotation recovered to 47 5/16, or ⅜ higher on the day. The Pref. repeated 11¾ and Dunvilles 13. Dublin Distillers Ord. fell back 2s. to 27s. 6d. for an exceptional or odd lot.

Grand Canal Pref. repeated 70s.

Marconis were idle and dull. Radio "A" Preferred (new form of stock) were practically unaltered at 10 1/16.

As regards Railways, Dublin and South Eastern Ord. repeated 19½, but the Pref. rose 2½ to 46. Great Northern Ord. rose ¼ to 58½, Great Southern Ord. finally fell ½ to 42, 41¾, but the Debs. rose ½ to 66½-¾, and the Pref. repeated 56⅞. Midland Great Western Ord. relasped 1 to 30 sellers.

Dunlop Rubber Ord. opened 3d. lower at 9s. 1½d., but later 9s. 3d. was fetched. Parent Tyre Pref. rose 3d. to 14s.

In Bakery, Johnston Ord. fell 7s. 7½d. to 50s., and in Drapery Shares Arnott Ord. repeated 96s. 10½d. and closed firm.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Textiles were mostly very firm. Bleachers and Dyers were wanted. Fine Spinners rose 1s. 9d. to 52s., and Calicos 6d. to 33s. Coats remain quiet at 61s. 7½d., 61s. 6d., and the "B" Pref. at 23s. 4½d. Courtaulds were firm at 55s. 9d., but the Pref. at 18s. 6d. were 1½d. lower. British-American Tobaccos repeated 108s., but Imperials were 3d. better at 78s., 78s. 3d. Helys Pref. repeated 18s. 3d., Lever Bros. 7 p.c. closed 20s. 4½d., 20s. 6d., and the 8 p.c. Pref. 20s. Imperial Tobacco of Canada fell 3d. to 27s. 3d.

Among Trading, etc., shares, A. Millar and Co. Pref. repeated 12s. 6d., J. C. Parkes and Sons Pref. 12s. 1½d., and Irish-American Oil Pref. 19s. 6d. Irish Times 2nd Pref. fell 3d. to 15s., but Heiton Pref. repeated 71s. 3d.

Mexican Eagle Oils realised 20s. 3d., 20s.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Referring to the first manipulating warehouse established by permission of the United States Treasury, the National Bank of Commerce in New York, writing in the October issue of "Commerce Monthly," says:—"The first manipulating warehouse in the United States was established in San Francisco in June, 1924, by special permission from the Secretary of the Treasury. San Francisco organisations were active in urging upon Congress the adoption of a special provision in the tariff of 1922 for the establishment of manipulating warehouses, and that city is now the first to make use of it. A private company owning bonded storage warehouses has been authorised to set aside a portion of one of its buildings as a manipulating warehouse, where imported goods may be brought without payment of duty for cleaning, sorting, repacking, or other change in condition. If the goods are re-exported no duty is collected, but if they are withdrawn for consumption in the United States the duty must be paid in full. Goods intended for re-export enjoy the privilege of a stop-over for repacking or any handling necessary to prepare them for consumers' use. Processes permitted in the manipulating warehouse do not include manufacturing of any kind. While a manipulating warehouse differs both in size and in scope from a free zone (or free port), the new system may be regarded as one result of the movement for free zones in ports of the United States. Since 1913 commercial organisations interested in foreign trade have urged upon Congress the enactment of legislation which would provide in American ports facilities for transhipment trade, similar to those in certain European ports. The term "foreign trade zone" is coming into use in American discussions of the subject. Hamburg, Bremen and Copenhagen are the best known of European free ports."

The monthly investment index figures of the British Foreign and Colonial Corporation, Ltd., show that after making the necessary adjustments for bonus distributions, new issues of capital, etc., 100 standard investment securities of an aggregate value on 31st December, 1918, of £2,991 millions, and on the 31st December, 1923, of £3,088 millions, had a market value on the 30th September, 1924, of £3,166 millions—an increase of 5.86 on the quotations on 31st December, 1918, and an increase of £16 millions, or 0.54 on the quotations on the 31st August, 1924. The return states that slight further advances in market values characterised stocks during September. Parliament was not sitting, which eliminated political crises, and, as this month is still largely devoted to holiday-making, there were no upward or downward movements of any magnitude or of a sustained kind. The most general appreciation was shown in the Tea section, which, however, was subject to sharp fluctuations. Other principal rises were in 5 p.c. War Loan, some Foreign Rails, Courtaulds and Mexican Eagles.

A cable to the London office of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York gives the following extracts from the company's statement, issued as of 29th September, 1924:—Total resources, $668,940,946.43, an increase of $18,513,819.13 over the statement of June 30, 1924. Deposits, $574,821,513.28, an increase of $43,326,131.01. Surplus and undivided profits $18,987,957.83, an increase of $224,465.31 over the June figures.

The Anglo-South American Bank, in its valuable cabled reports from branches, contain the following on the Argentina crops:—"Buenos Aires, 1st October.—Wheat, linseed and oats are in excellent condition almost everywhere. Recent rains are bringing on the young plants satisfactorily, although some damage may have been done in the North as a result of the drought, now terminated. The linseed crop is perhaps the most backward. Ploughing and sowing of maize continues under favourable weather conditions. Camp conditions have improved everywhere as a result of the recent rains."

OIL REPORT.

Kern River Oilfields of California.—Total production during September 20,740 tons, including St. Helens Petroleum Co., Ltd., 5,020; Kern Trinidad Oilfields, 4,549; Kern Romana, 351; Kern Mexican Oilfields S.A., 4,314.

LONDON STOCKS HESITANT.

QUOTATIONS GENERALLY LOWER.

The Stock markets opened the week in a hesitating condition, the fact that the carry-over commenced yesterday, coupled with the uncertainty regarding the political situation, tended to restrict business, which was on an extremely small scale. A tendency to lower prices was noticeable, and in most departments final quotations were lower than the previous close. The inter-Allied rates of exchange also experienced a slight setback. Among Breweries, Guinness Ord. improved, the final quotation of 473 being 3 points higher than the previous close. The Pref. remained at 117½, while Watney Combe Defd. repeated 247½. Business in Tea shares was small, and final prices were generally lower. In gilt-edged securities, British Funds were lower. Consols dropped ⅛ on the day to 57¼, while Funding Loan at 88½ x.d. and Victory Bonds at 91⅞ were both ½ down; 3½ p.c. Conversion Loan lost ¼ to 77½, but the 4½ p.c. were well held at 98. Treasury Bonds repeated 103½, while Irish Land 2¾ p.c. were also steady at 60. War Loans were steady, and closing prices showed no alterations from the week-end levels. Indias weakened, the 3 p.c. losing ½ to 54½, while the 3½ p.c. were also ½ down at 64½. Local Loans were quiet and unaltered. Among Colonial Government Stocks, New Zealand 4 p.c. Cons. '29 gained a point to 95 x.d., while Queensland 4 p.c. 1940-'50 were also a point better at 85.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were slightly better, and where any change was recorded prices finished the turn higher. Despite the drop in the franc, French Loans were well held, and at the finish the Fives at 23½ and the Fours at 18½ were both without alteration. German Bonds were quiet and unchanged on the day. Chinese 5 p.c. 1896 repeated 90 x.d., while the 5 p.c. 1912 were also unchanged. The 4½ p.c. 1898 on the other hand, were better, and at the close showed an improvement of a point to 77.

HOME RAILS were weak, and with one exception closing prices were lower where any change was shown. Great Western lost ½ to 104½, while North-Easterns were quiet and without change. Metropolitans dropped back, and at the close showed a decrease of a point to 74, while Districts dropped ½ to 49. Southern Pref. Ord. at 80½ and the Def. Ord. at 39½ were both ½ lower. Undergrounds were fairly well held, and closing prices showed no alterations. Midlands, on the other hand, were better, the Ord. closing ½ higher at 96½.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILS were slightly better. Entre Rios provided the feature, the 6 p.c. Cum. Pref. finishing 3½ points to the good at 85, while the Ord. at 23 were a point up. Canadian Pacifics remained at 166. Grand Trunks Pacific 4 p.c. Debs. dropped a point to 59, but the 4 p.c. Perp. Debs. finished a point higher at 82 x.d. Leopoldina gained ½ to 30½; Mexicans were quiet and unaltered. Antofagasta Ord. at 88½ were ½ higher, while Buenos Aires issues were all steady at previous quotations.

OIL SHARES STEADY.

VENEZUELANS IN DEMAND.

While it was only in a few specialities that business could be described as of an important character, the Oil share market, as a whole, presented a firm appearance yesterday, and price movements, with few exceptions, favoured holders. Venezuelans again commanded the bulk of attention, with V.O.C. Holdings once more providing a strong and active feature. In view of the progress made by the Venezuelan Oil Cons. during the current year, the Chairman should have a satisfactory statement to make at to-day's meeting. The recognised leaders had a quiet appearance at the start, and prices generally had an easier tendency during the early hours, but with the exception of Royal Dutch, early losses were made good. Bear operators appear to have singled out Royal Dutch for their attacks, but met with very little success, the shares showing only a small loss on balance. Shells, which weakened during the morning, closed steady and unchanged. Anglo-Persians were a much better market, and made made a good recovery, while Burmahs were quietly steady, and Anglo-Americans strengthened. Mexican Eagles were comparatively quiet, and finished without alteration. Among Roumanians, Phœnix continued the subject of liquidation and further declined, but Steaua Romana British remained steady. Trinidad issues commanded very little attention. Leaseholds failed to derive any benefit from the record production announced in respect of the past month. Centrals made a partial recovery, but General Pet. of Trinidad weakened. In other directions, Lobitos came into renewed demand and advanced smartly, and in sympathy with them Anglo-Ecuadorians improved. Kern Rivers remained quiet. Closing prices:—

LONDON MINING MARKET RATHER IDLE.

CENTRAL MININGS IN DEMAND.

Apart from a few specialties, the open account in Mining shares has been kept within modest bounds, and the carryover was easily completed yesterday, accommodation being generally forthcoming on the usual terms of 5½ to 6½ per cent. There was no accumulation of week-end orders worth talking about, and with the carry-over in progress new time dealings were on a very small scale. Political considerations are given as the cause of the public apathy, but professionals, though they are not apparently quite so nervous in this connection, are disinclined to give a lead. Kaffirs are thought to have reached an attractive level, in view of the excellent character of the September returns and the probability of increased dividends, but, except for a very little investment buying, these descriptions are allowed to languish. Moreover, Johannesburg is as indifferent as London, and Paris for some time past has been hardly a factor. Central Mining and Union Corporation were both in demand and registered smart gains, while "Johnnies" and several of the leading Far Easterns also strengthened. West Springs, however, were dullish, notwithstanding the satisfactory monthly return. The lower-priced descriptions were not so much in evidence as recently, and were mostly easier.

In the Rhodesian department Sherwood Starr stood out rather prominently, a modest demand on a limited market causing a sharp advance. Cam and Motor were fairly active, closing unaltered; but Tanks and Zams were in request once more, and moved up. Chartered showed a firm front, but Gaika were flat. Diamonds kept steady. De Beers responded to a little bidding, and West African Diamonds enjoyed support. The price of tin was a trifle lower at £242 2s. 6d. per ton, and the share market was described as stupid. Renong, despite the satisfactory report, were easier, and a few others fell away the turn; but East Pool and Geevor were wanted and moved up. Ashanti Goldfields, in the West African list, were a strong spot, good buying being induced by the satisfactory September return and expectations of even better results for the current month. Akim were also a harder market. Australians were hardly mentioned, and Rio Tinto relapsed. In the miscellaneous department, Chosen Syndicate were a feature, good buying being accompanied by reports of satisfactory developments. It was also said that the selling by those who acquired shares lower down had ceased. Huronian Belt and Vipond were being bid for, and Bingo Pref. strengthened. The Corderoy issues were in demand and higher. Mexican Mines were said to be in request from Mexico via Paris. San Francisco lost the turn. Closing prices:—

INDUSTRIALS QUIET.

MARKETS INFLUENCED BY POLITICS.

Speaking generally, a quiet and uninteresting day experienced in the Miscellaneous and Industrial markets yesterday was accounted for by political considerations combined with the approaching carry-over, which takes place to-day. The undertone, however, remained firm, there being scarcely sufficient business passing to test prices, as a result of which very few important movements occurred. Nitrates commanded renewed support. A general advance took place in Liverpools, Londons and Salars standing out prominently. In the Land group, Sudan Plantations exhibited weakness on the latest Egyptian developments. Otherwise this group was well maintained. Fresh selling of Tobaccos caused a further slight set-back, but B.A.T. were wanted and finished a firm market. Among Miscellaneous trading concerns about the only feature was the weakness of Mappin and Webb Prefs., while Columbia Gramophones were subjected to a little selling. Brazil Coffee descriptions developed renewed strength. The Iron, Coal and Steel market remained very quiet, changes being mostly insignificant. Apart from a set-back in Furness Withys, Shipping securities kept up. Electrics were a few pence lower where changed, owing to renewed fears of trouble on the wages question. Among Wireless descriptions, Marconis weakened to 1⅝ and the Prefs. lost 1/16 at 1½. Marines, however, strengthened to 1 1/16. Radio Corps. weakened to 6¼. Motor Shares were quiet and improvements mostly unimportant. Napiers closed 6d. better at 23s. 6d., and Rolls-Royce stiffened to 26s. 9d., after opening on the dull side at round 32s. Support was forthcoming for Singers, which left off a firm market at 32s. 6d., business being recorded at 33s. Dennis Brothers were a dull spot at 35s., or 1s. lower, and Rovers eased to 11s. 9d. Bank Shares displayed firmness. Hong Kong and Shanghai and National of Indias both rose ½ to 134 and 44 respectively, while rises of ⅛ occurred in Bank of Australasias to 13⅝, in Bank of London and South Americas to 8¼, and in Union of Australias to 15. Smaller advances were registered by Anglo-South Americans at 7 5/16, by Lloyds at 59s. 9d., by National Provincial (£4) at 10⅜, and by Westminsters at 17½.

Insurances were rather uncertain, for while Phoenix receded to 12, or ½ lower, and Yorkshires dropped ¼ to 11, Sun Life rose ½ to 35½. Little of interest transpired in Textiles. Amalgamated Cottons moved up to 9s. and Courtaulds exhibited firmness at 55s. 9d., while Wardle and Davenports were a better market at 61s. 6d. Bradford Dyers, on the other hand, dropped 6d. to 74s. 6d., and Crosses and Winkworth Prefs. were a dull market at 8s. 9d. Except for the Prefs., which receded to 19s. 6d., Harrods B.A. issues held their ground, the Def. rising ⅛ to 2. Van Den Berghs stiffened to 1 11/16 and Maypole Def. to 5s. 4½d. No decided tendency was exhibited by Breweries. Guinness rose 3 to 473 and Ashbys put on ½ to 14. Benskins strengthened to 25s. 3d. and City of Londons closed 1/16 better at 2 11/16. The Prefs. of the latter, however, fell 1½ to 91, and losses of 1 occurred in Allsopp Prefs. at 88 and in Watney Combe Def. at 246½. Nobels improved to 24s., while Roneos moved up to 19s. 3d. Apart from Amalgamated Press, which fell 1s. to 43s. 6d., Newspapers remained steady at previous levels. Among recent issues, "Daily Sketch" Debs. improved to 3⅜ prem., though Stewart and Lloyds Def. receded to 17s. 6d. prem.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS ABUNDANT.

INTER-ALLIED EXCHANGES DULL

Conditions were quite comfortable in Lombard street yesterday, and the market repaid the fairly large amount due to the Bank of England without much effort. Funds were plentiful, being augmented by the payment of the dividends on Consols, etc., amounting to some 6¼ millions. Day-to-day money was generally obtainable at 2½ to 2¾ p.c., although occasionally 3 p.c. was paid. For weekly loans the charge was still 2¾ p.c. There was not much business going on in the discount market owing to the scarcity of bills, and rates were quoted the same as on Saturday. Fine three months' Bank paper was 3 11/16 p.c.; secondhand Treasuries were a shade over 3⅝ p.c.

Bank Rate (Discount changed July 5, 1923), 4%

Gold was unchanged at 92s. 9d. per ounce. Bar silver further advanced ⅛d. to 35⅛d. per ounce for both spot and forward delivery.

In the Foreign Exchange market yesterday Inter-Allied rates were dull, probably on fears of a general election, as the practical completion of the arrangements with regard to the German Loan should have made for firmer exchanges. Sterling on New York fell back to 4.45⅞ to 4.45⅞ dols., and French francs came on offer up to 85.00. Belgian francs deteriorated to 92.70 to 92.75, and Italian lire to 101.85 to 101.95. On the other hand, Dutch florins appreciated against sterling, being quoted 11.49¾ to 11.50¼, Spain being also better at 33.40 to 33.45 and Switzerland at 23.26 to 23.30. Norwegian kroners continued in demand at 31.15 to 31.20, and Danish kroners were also better at 25.40 to 25.43. Rumanian lei further appreciated to 825 to 845, Austria being steady at 314,000 to 319,000 crowns; Portugal reacted to 1⅞ to 1⅞. Further improvements were shown by South American exchanges, Buenos Ayres rising to 45⅛ to 45¼, Rio to 6 1/16 to 6 3/16, and Monte Video to 46⅞ to 47⅛. Rupees remained in demand, and further advanced to 1s. 6 1/16d. to 1s. 6 3/16d., and China rates were also higher. Japanese yen, however, continued to sag, being 1s. 9⅛d. to 1s. 9¼d. SCOTTISH WHISKEY PRICES INCREASED.

Our Edinburgh Correspondent telegraphs:—

As a result of the advance in the prices of barley and other raw materials, the Scotch whiskey distillers have increased their prices for the new season's output. The Highland distillers have increased their prices by sixpence per proof gallon, the Islay and Campbeltown distillers by a similar amount, and the Lowland malt and grain whiskey distillers by threepence per gallon. This increase will not affect the price to the consumer, who has to pay the present big retail prices, solely caused by the unprecedentedly high spirit duty of 72s. 6d. per proof gallon. This duty allows for 8s. 5½d. of the present standard price of 12s. 6d. per bottle. As a result of the penalising duty, the consumption has fallen by 50 per cent., and the revenue now is ten millions sterling less than it was when the duty was 22s. 6d. per gallon lower.

COMPANY MEETING.

HARPER BEAN, LIMITED.

The adjourned meeting of Harper Bean, Ltd., the big motor combine, was held at the Holborn Restaurant, London, yesterday. It lasted nearly three hours, and resulted in another adjournment. There was much recrimination and many personalities during the discussion.

Several resolutions were put forward by the shareholders, but only that for the adjournment was submitted to the meeting, and this motion was carried on a show of hands. The Chairman, however, demanded a poll.

Mr. R. Taylor, a member of the Committee of Investigation, pointed out that the poll was out of order, and this statement was greeted with loud cheers by the shareholders. There were cries for the directors to resign, and one shareholder said he was "fed up" with the directors.

"Not nearly so much as we are," replied Sir Thomas Polson, the Chairman.

On behalf of the Committee, Mr. Reginald Taylor read a long statement, in which he said the Committee had been unable to make any progress owing to the continued refusal of the directors to give the information asked for. He added that certain transactions had taken place which the Committee thought required the closest scrutiny. The Committee had expressed their willingness to put forward a scheme of reconstruction if the directors resigned. This, however, they refused to do.

Sir Thomas Polson, in reply, said that the Board had given the Committee all the information they thought necessary. The Board had been advised that it was beyond the scope of the Committee to invesigate anything but the present position. Sir Thomas said that he was advised that the best course would be for the liquidator to be appointed, and that the Committee should continue in office to act with him. The Board, he added, had no objection to the fullest investigation.

Mr. H. F. Robertson, a director, who joined the Board a few months ago, also advised liquidation with the continuance of the Committee.

Many shareholders spoke, and the proceedings ended with three hearty cheers for the Committee.

FREE STATE REVENUE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I draw your attention to an error which has crept into your statement of Free State Revenue Returns in your issue of to-day's date? You state:—"The revenue has fallen to £12,784,355, or £1,201,631 less than in 1923, reducing the net saving to £4,511,033."

The official statement gives the revenue for April 1st to September 30th, 1923, as £14,985,986, so that the fall in revenue is £2,201,631 and the net saving £3,511,033.—Yours, etc.,

M. R. J. EASON,
Editor, Journal of the Institute of Bankers in Ireland.

Institute of Bankers in Ireland,
40 Dawson street, Dublin,
October 4th, 1924.

[NOTE.—The paragraph referred to by our correspondent should have stated that the revenue of 1923 was swollen by an Excise windfall of one million pounds on the setting up of the Customs barrier. This windfall did not occur in the present year, and it is only fair, in making a comparison for the two half-years, to deduct this sum and so arrive at the normal revenue, which leaves our figure close to the total.—ED. I.T.]

STEEL HOUSE.

BUILT IN A DAY IN GLASGOW.

A steel house was built in a day at Glasgow, under the inspection of a deputation from the Committee appointed by the Minister of Health, to study and advise him as to the style of construction and materials for mass house-building.

The deputation investigated Lord Weir's proposal for houses of steel. At one of the workshops the sections for a steel house were examined, and a squad of workmen then set about erecting the house. In an hour and a half the walls had been put up, the floor laid, and the woodwork of the roof nearly completed. Before the deputation left at 5 p.m. the house was practically complete.

In ordinary circumstances, however, after the concrete foundations has been laid the completion of the house in all its details will take from 10 to 14 days.

Other types of steel houses are to be examined by the deputation.

COST OF ELECTRICITY.

DISTRIBUTION PROBLEM IN BELFAST.

In an address to the Belfast and District Chamber of Trade yesterday, Mr. Johnstone Wright, M.I.E.E., manager and engineer of the Corporation's electricity works, said that formerly the cost of current for lighting purposes was very high, but anybody who studied the present tariffs would say that they were not at all dear. Last July the price was reduced to 6½d. a unit.

The trouble in the matter of cost was that they could not store electricity. For that reason they had complicated charges. When electricity could not be stored they could not have a flat rate for everybody. Plant had to be supplied to meet the maximum demand, but during certain parts of the day it might be comparitively idle.

Shop-lighting was the most unproductive load they had. Practically nothing was got out of it. Only an average of an hour a day all the year round was required. There were several customers in Belfast at under 1d. a unit because of their requirements continuing longer. While they had reduced the cost to 6½d. in July, there were larger consumers who for the same reason got down to 3½d. They could, if they wished, go on to the rateable value and 1d. a unit for private supplies.

A PUBLICAN'S GUESTS.

MAGISTRATE'S CONVICTION REVERSED.

Before Mr. Justice Drumgoole, at the Dublin Circuit Court, Green street, yesterday, in the appeal case, under the licensing Acts, of O'Driscoll v. McCabe,

Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Mr. Davy), on behalf of James McCabe, publican, Main street, Blackrock, appealed against a conviction of the defendant, who was charged in the Kingstown Police Court by Police Constable O'Driscoll with allowing intoxicating liquor to be sold on his premises during prohibited hours, and was fined £4 by Mr. Cooper, K.C., divisional police magistrate.

The case for the prosecution was that four persons were found drinking on the licensed premises during closing hours, and the defence was that these people were the invited guests of the defendant, and that no payment was made for the drink.

Mr. Justice Drumgoole now reversed the decision of the magistrate, but said that it was very indiscreet for the defendant to have his guests on the ground floor, instead of in a private room upstairs. The police could not do otherwise but bring the prosecution when they found people drinking on the premises during prohibited hours, and this was a very proper case to bring.

Mr. O'Flaherty, solicitor, appeared for the police.
